RAF Bombers Raid Axis Munitions Centers

By RICE YAHNER
LONDON, May 26 (AP)—The RAF sent the German arms center of Duesseldorf with nearly 2,000 tons of explosives last night.

A total of nearly 900 planes based in Britain and Africa struck the city in a violent general aerial offensive which authoritative sources said was just a foretaste of greater attacks aimed at tearing out the life of the enemy's war-making capabilities.

Perhaps 500 British bombers, most of them four-engined giants packing 100 tons of bombs, left a carpet of flames to eat through craters of Duesseldorf in a saturation raid of equalling Sunday night's record of destruction heaped on Dortmund, fifty miles away.

The rolling sky barrage continued as a strong force of Allied bombers sped across the English channel toward the invasion coast.

Blockbusting Attack
More than five two-ton blockbusting bombs per minute hurtled on Duesseldorf, the British ministry said, in the biggest attack yet carried out under unfavorable conditions.

Thousands of incendiaries also rained upon the Ruhr city, the flames fanning a red glare the cloud layers through which the British attacked "in very great strength," the same official phrase used to describe the destruction over Dortmund.

One huge explosion came up in the city and penetrated through the clouds, said returning bombers. "There were several other explosions which sent up orange flames."

Twenty-seven British bombers were reported to return from this saturation attack which was regarded as a step toward realization of the long-term strategy of pounding the city behind its fortified walls until it is reduced to rubble.

Filling Stations Get More Gas in Baltimore Area

Note Shortage Near End, but Restrictions Will Remain

(By The Associated Press)
With some filling stations resuming business on a small scale, Manager Blakely of the Baltimore Office of Petroleum Administration today said the acute shortage of gasoline apparently was over.

Blakely said the supply would be sufficient to prevent shutdowns in industries, but not for the lifting of present restrictions, including rationing on pleasure driving.

Meanwhile, the Maryland Office of Petroleum Administration said it has listed a total of 1,021 motorists suspected of violating the driving ban and announced a second suspension of a motorist's ration for violation of the prohibition.

O'Connor Gives Views
Governor O'Connor asked the Maryland State Police to stop non-essential driving so that every available gallon of gasoline would be available to the military.

Two Navy Planes Sink Submarine In the Atlantic

Thirty or 40 Survivors Left Afloat after Bomb Attacks

WASHINGTON, May 26 (AP)—Two navy patrol planes sank an enemy submarine in the South Atlantic several weeks ago, the navy reported today, and as the craft finally disappeared beneath the surface with its guns firing it left thirty or forty survivors afloat.

To date no report has been received here of the landing of any of the survivors, the navy said, although life rafts were dropped to them by the planes.

The initial assault on the surfaced enemy warship was made by a PBV bomber. The heavy plane dived on the submarine and crippled it so badly that a second plane was able to finish the job.

The submarine was first sighted when it was several miles away. The plane approached to within a mile of the sub and at that point the enemy crew opened fire with deck guns.

"Dive bombing a PBV is something the designer never thought about," the navy said in its account of the engagement, "but the pilot did. Rumbling out of the clouds like a landslide at an angle of sixty degrees and an unprecise speed of 245 miles an hour, the pilot held his 'plummeting plane' on the sub in spite of continuing gun fire until he was close enough to release his bombs.

"The depth bombs exploded close aboard on both sides of the target, and water thrown up by the explosions hid it from sight completely. When the air cleared, the submarine was on the surface, circling to the left and leaving a long streak of brown oil.

"Heavy dark grey smoke was seen coming from the conning tower and the submarine appeared to be out of control. About fifteen minutes later, the smoke cleared away and the submarine resumed a straight course. Keeping the victim in sight, the pilot began using his radio to call other planes into the area."

Another Plane Attacks
Shortly thereafter, the navy account continued, another plane from the same squadron arrived and attacked the submarine. In the face of continued gun fire, it made a bombing run and released depth bombs. Then the plane shot it out with the submarine in four strafing runs, and the PBV also strafed the enemy craft.

"The depth bombs exploded close aboard," the navy said.

Friends, However, Believe C. E. Sorensen May Become President

DETROIT, May 26 (AP)—Edsel Bryant Ford died today, leaving the gigantic Ford Motor Company to carry on temporarily without its president, treasurer and nominal general manager.

Death came to the 49-year-old son of Henry Ford at his home in suburban Grosse Pointe Shores at 1:30 a. m., and was attributed to a family announcement to a recurrence of a stomach malady aggravated by undulant fever.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Friday in Christ Church chapel, Grosse Pointe. Burial will be private. The Rt. Rev. Frank W. Creighton, Episcopal bishop of Michigan, and the Rev. Francis B. Creamer, rector of Christ Church Parish, will officiate. The family has not so indicated but interment may be in a family plot on a Ford-owned farm not far from Henry Ford's birthplace. There are buried the elder Ford's parents, several brothers and other members of the family.

Body at Funeral Home

A family announcement late today said the body would be at the Hamilton funeral parlors at Cass and Alexander avenues, until Friday morning.

The younger Ford's ailment dated back more than a year and a half. He underwent an operation for stomach ulcers in January, 1942. It was a recurrence of this malady that took the widely popular president of the Ford Company to Florida for a rest and recuperation ten weeks ago.

He failed to regain his strength and discovered then that he had contracted undulant fever. He returned home where his condition became critical last Saturday.

Hundreds of Messages

Hundreds of messages of sympathy poured in by telegraph and telephone at the Ford offices in Dearborn and the Edsel Ford home in Grosse Pointe Shores. They came from peace-time business rivals and friends and acquaintances throughout the world.

With the death of Henry Ford's only son came speculation and conjecture concerning the future of the company, its executive personnel and the distribution of the Edsel Ford holdings in the great enterprise that grew from a $28,000 investment in 1903 to fabulous proportions in a few decades.

The Ford Motor Company itself had an asset value of more than $718,000,000 as of the close of 1941, according to a financial statement filed in Massachusetts. What were the personal fortunes of Henry and Edsel Ford were closely guarded family secrets. So, too, were whatever arrangements that may have been made for the future of the company.

Big Explosives Plant Closed by Mississippi Flood

But Surging Waters Are Receding and Worst Is Believed Over

(By The Associated Press)
Surging waters closed a big explosives plant yesterday but elsewhere along the midwestern flood front tension eased as rivers dropped slowly but steadily at many points.

The overflow from the Mississippi, rising more than a foot in two hours, swept past sandbag barricades and gushed into the Atlas Powder Company's building at Wolf Lake, Ill. Production was halted.

Farther north, while crests slipped downstream and the remaining seawalls stood up to the test of tremendous pressure, federal officials and representatives of six states met in St. Louis to consider plans for getting inundated agricultural land back in the food-for-victory program.

Worst Flood Since 1937

Muddy waters have submerged 3,926,000 acres of Illinois, Missouri, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Kansas and Indiana, routed 160,000 persons and caused twenty-one deaths in the worst floods in the Midlands since 1937, when Ohio and Mississippi valley disaster made more than 1,000,000 homeless and took 466 lives.

But conditions took a turn for the better as the Mississippi fell at several points.

MINERS' COMMITTEE CALLED TO CONSIDER STRIKE TERMS

WASHINGTON, May 26 (AP)—President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers has summoned the union's policy committee to meet here Saturday, a step indicating the UMW expects an early agreement in the soft coal wage dispute.

The operators and the miners returned to the bargaining table today in line with a war labor board directive to work out a settlement of the miners' demand for pay on a portal-to-portal basis which would cover their underground travel as well as actual productive time.

Lewis and the UMW district presidents met briefly with the Appalachian operators, north and south. The operators caucused for an hour, apparently trying to work out their own problems of strategy and representation on a negotiating subcommittee. Then a recess was taken until late today at the operators' request.

Lewis maintained silence on the WLB order, consistent with his position of refusing to recognize the board's jurisdiction. The truce under which the industry has been operating expires next Monday. Informed UMW sources (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

Violent Fighting In Caucasus Ends Rest for Germans

Force of 1,600 Thrown Back with Heavy Losses, Moscow Reports

LONDON, Thursday, May 27 (AP)—Violent fighting was renewed Wednesday in the Caucasus where a force of 1,600 Germans was thrown back with heavy losses in an attack in the lower Kuban river, the Russians reported early today.

Two other German thrusts in the Rostov and Donets sectors also were shattered in sporadic outbursts of battle said the midnight communique recorded by the Soviet monitor.

The Germans threw two battalions of troops against Russian positions on the lower reaches of the Kuban northwest of Novorossisk, but "as a result of violent fighting our troops beat off the enemy and inflicted heavy losses on him," the war bulletin reported.

A German transocean broadcast recorded by the Associated Press said the Germans had improved their positions in the lower Kuban district near Temryuk, capturing 600 Russians and killing 400. "The broadcast added that the Russians had regrouped their forces and that heavier fighting was imminent. On the Donets sector near Liskachinsk, 125 miles southeast of Kharkov, the Germans "under cover" (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

Senate Committee Acts To Prevent Roosevelt from Dipping into Funds

WASHINGTON, May 26 (AP)—In a new move to tighten congressional control over federal spending, the Senate appropriations committee voted today to prohibit President Roosevelt from dipping into emergency war funds to finance controversial agencies.

The committee first set aside a House prohibition against using any of the $200,000,000 White House money chest to finance the National Security Council Planning Board or the Farm Security Administration. Then it wrote into a $143,639,591 urgent deficiency appropriation bill a general ban against the funds' use for "the functions of any agency of the government for which appropriations have been duly made by Congress, or for functions for which estimates have been submitted by the budget, and for which Congress has failed to make appropriations."

Exempted are the War and Navy departments which committee members said might need emergency financing from time to time. The amendment also would not restrict use of the president's fund for emergencies connected with the war where no appeal has been made to Congress for money.

President Sees Flagrant Violation of Pledge and Threatens Prompt Action

Sends Telegram to Akron Leaders Demanding End of Strike by Noon Tomorrow; Directs That All Picketing Cease; Declares Men Must Obey Decisions of the War Labor Board

AKRON, O., May 26. (AP)—CIO United Rubber Workers at the General Tire & Rubber Company, one of four major concerns hit by a work stoppage of 51,500 unionists, tonight voted to return to their jobs immediately. Two thousand workers have been idle at General.

WASHINGTON, May 26. (AP)—President Roosevelt declared tonight the government will "take the necessary steps" unless the Akron rubber strike is ended by noon tomorrow.

The chief executive acted soon after the dispute was certified to him by the War Labor Board. Declaring the strike, which has kept 51,000 workers idle in Akron's major rubber plants, was inexcusable, Mr. Roosevelt said it was "shocking to the nation to discover that any group within our citizenry would impede, for a single moment, the production of the materials of war needed for our war effort."

In a telegram to leaders of the unions involved, the president said:

"The National War Labor Board has reported to me concerning the serious strikes existing in several rubber plants in Akron, Ohio. From the point of view of the nation, these strikes are inexcusable and must therefore be accepted by the country and by your government for what they basically are: namely, a defiance of the War Labor Board, a challenge to government by law and a blow against the effective prosecution of the war. Further, these strikes constitute a flagrant violation of the no-strike pledge. They must not be permitted to continue any longer. In the midst of a war calling for the supreme sacrifice of many in the ranks of our armed forces, it is shocking to the nation to discover that any group within our citizenry would impede, for a single moment, the production of the materials of war needed for our war effort."

Union Leaders Urge Men To Resume Work

AKRON, O., May 26 (AP)—The CIO United Rubber Workers' International Executive Board today called upon "all its members now engaged in a stoppage of work in Akron and elsewhere to return to their war production jobs without delay."

The statement came after the board conferred for more than six hours. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

Martin Supports Conference Plan For Tax Accord

Republican Leader Accepts Proposals as Best Obtainable

WASHINGTON, May 26. (AP)—Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of Massachusetts, today threw his party's house strength behind the compromise, 75-to-100 per cent abatement, pay-as-you-go tax bill, and predicted its passage by Congress.

His prediction was echoed by Sen. George (D-Ga.), chairman of the Senate Finance committee and author of the compromise, who told newspapermen the legislation would pass "with no difficulty at all."

George added that he could "see no good reason why the president would not sign it."

However, there were some signs of opposition in the House by Democrats and Republicans who have battled against any tax abatement in wartime.

CHUNGKING, May 26 (AP)—Chinese troops have recaptured an important strategic point in a battle on the outer ring of Ichang in central China, a high command communique reported tonight.

War of Nerves Keeps Italian People Worried

Constant Bombings May Force Them To Get Out of the War

By GLENN BABE
Associated Press Staff Writer

The minds of the Italian people have become one of the critical battlefields of the war. For possession, the Allies and the Axis are fighting an engagement which is likely to have much to do with the war's course and duration.

Nowhere has there been a more vivid illustration of the fact that this is a war in which ideas can be as important as more lethal weapons. It is possible that thousands of American, British and French lives will be saved by the psychological bombardment the Allies are combining so efficiently with the aerial bombardment of Italian ports and cities.

Axis Propagandists Active

The frantic efforts of the Rome-Berlin propaganda machine to set up a defense against the Allied barrage of ideas seems a fair index of its effectiveness. During the last few days the Axis has fed its peoples with some of the most fantastic tales of the war. The mainstay, of course, is the legend of the impregnability of Axis defenses, which has taken the place of the former myth of the invincibility of German and Italian forces on the offensive.

For example the Rome radio yesterday was describing the strength of Italy's bulwarks on sea and on land, blantly ignoring the fact, so well known to millions of Italians, that her air defenses are helpless to prevent the destruction of her ports, airfields and war plants. In default of such air protection the broadcast offered a tale about the sowing of 100,000 mines on the sea approaches to Italy and another likening coastal defenses to Germany's vaunted Atlantic wall.

Italians Desperate

This is supposed to strengthen the morale of countless Italians to whom American and British air power is no secret or mystery.

Rome's account of an Italian bomber attack on Port Sudan and Gura far down the Red Sea coast, presumably from Crete and involving a round trip of some 3,000 miles, is one of the most remarkable contributions to the psychological war. It may be true, which makes it no less remarkable, for in that case it shows how hard up Mussolini must be for something to raise the flagging spirits of his people. Such an attack, even if successful, could have not the slightest military effect; it would be difficult to conceive of a less important target. The purpose appears to have been to encourage some Italians and Germans to forget for a while the terrible punishment their cities are receiving and dream of retaliation against the wicked British and perhaps even of raids on New York.

It is difficult to see from this angle how such propaganda, unless bolstered by force and threats, can prevail for long against psychological weapons such as Churchill's latest warning to the Italian people that it would be wise to be rid of their leaders and get out of the war while the getting is good.

said that if an agreement is not reached the strike undoubtedly will be extended as long as bargaining continues.

The strike was extended once before without assembling the Policy Committee. Under UMW procedure, the Policy Committee acts upon any agreement reached by its negotiating subcommittee, and that is believed to be the purpose of the summons now.

At Fairmont, W. Va., Secretary Harry Bennett of United Mine Workers District No. 31, said:

"I am hopeful that the call means the sub-committee of the operators and the union now meeting in Washington will have some definite proposal on a new contract to lay before us at that time."

Union leaders who cannot be quoted by name said they were confident that an agreement on portal-to-portal pay, plus the increased vacation money and occupational charge allowances ordered by the war labor board, would exceed $1 a day.

Lewis listened with apparent interest to news of a recommended increase of eight cents an hour for non-operating railroad employees, but withheld immediate comment.

vent the president from overriding Congress by using his emergency fund to supplement the revenues allowed some of these agencies by Congress, or to finance them entirely after Congress has seen fit to deny them all funds.

The Planning Board, the HOLC and the Farm Security Administration are among the "New Deal" agencies which have been the target of recent congressional restrictions.

The Senate committee approved a $200,000 fund for the Planning Board. This is included in the Independent Offices Appropriations bill on which debate will be resumed tomorrow. Chairman McKellar (D-Tenn.) is seeking to raise this amount to $534,000, the figure allowed by the subcommittee.

West Virginia Parks Open Under Wraps

CHARLESTON, W. Va., May 26 (AP) — Nine roadside parks and picnic areas located in the eastern panhandle will be opened to the public Memorial Day but they probably won't attract many visitors, the Office of Price Administration said today.

An OPA spokesman pointed out that the parks are within the area where non-essential and pleasure driving is now prohibited, and added that only motorists making essential trips could take advantage of the park facilities without facing the loss of gasoline rations.

The OPA is conducting a vigorous enforcement campaign in the eight eastern counties and indicated that the parks would be checked along with other recreational centers.

to the sub, whereupon she settled gradually by the stern and her bow came out of the water until it protruded at an angle of about fifty degrees.

"The underwater craft then slid slowly downward and backward until it disappeared completely about six minutes after the explosion occurred. Firing continued from the deck until the conning tower submerged."

The navy said that while the dive bombing method was "not encouraged" by the commanding officers, the pilot was commended for the results obtained because his actions showed him to be "a determined, courageous and capable anti-submarine pilot."

bor Act, to proceed in disregard of their not unreasonable interpretation of the unexpired moratorium agreement against changes in rules and to acquiesce in the adoption of this policy in the railroad industry without an adequate showing in the record as to its need or utility or implications."

Outside Steel Formula

The board's findings were made outside the Little Steel formula used by the War Labor Board in adjusting wages of non-railroad workers.

The increases, it said, are the "minimum, non-inflationary adjustments necessary to correct gross inequities and to aid in the effective prosecution of the war." The WLB may make increases for the same reasons, outside the Little Steel formula.

The five operating brotherhoods which actually run the trains were not affected by the report. These unions have demanded an increase in wages of 30 per cent and another emergency board will start hearings on this in New York June 7.

Craftsmen Get Low Pay

The board said various crafts or classes of workers involved in the dispute covered in today's report, such as carpenters and machinists, receive "sharply lower wage rates than those paid in comparable groups in non-railroad industries."

The proposed wage increases, it added, "are within the existing price structure; that is, they do not provide a basis for increases in railroad rates or for resistance to justifiable reductions in such rates; and they are within existing levels of production costs; that is, they do not provide a basis for increasing production costs in comparable industries or occupations."

"The correction of the gross inequities disclosed by the facts of record," it continued, "is indispensable to the effective prosecution of the war."

The board held up the processes for settling railroad labor disputes under the Railway Labor Act as an example which might well be followed by other industries.

"For a period of two decades," it said, "there has been an almost complete absence of strikes or other interruptions of railroad service. The profound significance of this record can best be appreciated when it is contrasted with the work stoppages in the non-railroad field."

Expecting Reprimand, He Gets Decoration

WASHINGTON, May 26 (AP)—This is a story without all the names and some of the details, but you readers will understand why the omissions were thought best.

A navy petty officer back from the wars did some celebrating the other Saturday night. Next Monday morning, as he ruminated over the foibles of sailors ashore, he received notice to report at a certain room in the navy building.

Concluding that this was it, and sprucing himself up to appear before the mast and receive sentence, he reported as directed, and was impressed by all the assembled gold braid. He was lined up with three admirals and other high ranking officers, and then Secretary of the Navy Knox pinned the navy cross over his fluttering heart.

The petty officer confessed later to a photographer, who asked why he looked so unhappy throughout the ceremony, that it wasn't at all what he expected. The decoration was a complete surprise.

Davies Pays Second Visit to Stalin

LONDON, Thursday, May 27. (AP)—Joseph E. Davies, who took the secret letter of President Roosevelt to Joseph Stalin a week ago, visited the Russian leader a second time last night after having indicated he was ready to return to the United States immediately.

The second meeting between Davies and Stalin, announced in a Moscow radio broadcast recorded here by the Soviet monitor, was attended by Russian Foreign Commissar Molotov, as was the first.

During the day Wednesday, Davies told the Associated Press in Moscow he was completing his business in Russia in preparation for his return to Washington, but he set no exact time for his departure.

Davies told the Associated Press also that "there is nothing now to prevent my leaving."

He declined to say whether he had received a written reply from Stalin to the secret message, nor did he say whether he expected one.

miles southeast of Ichang. Chinese shore batteries drove back still other enemy forces attempting to cross to the north bank of the Ching river south of Changyang, the war bulletin said, while Japanese units from Yuyangkwan, southwest of Ichang, were reported repulsed in a brisk attack on two villages. The invaders suffered heavy losses, headquarters said.

The Central News agency had reported defeat of Japanese groups south and southwest of Yuyangkwan, and "staggering losses" inflicted on the enemy below Ichang when the invaders attempted to drive the Chinese out of defenses along the Yangtze between Ichang and Yochow. It also told of heavy fighting continuing on the south bank of the Yangtze.

The late communique declared Chinese troops recaptured two villages in the outer ring of Lihien in the Tungting Lake area, and that in a night raid in Chekiang province they entered Hsinshih west of Lanshi, "killing many enemy men and thoroughly demolishing enemy defense works." Japanese reinforcements moving up from Lanshi were hurled back, it added.

In Kwangtung an enemy supply train hit a mine laid by the Chinese, and three coaches were reported blown up with many enemy soldiers killed.

Jap Resistance On Atlu Island Seems Near End

Air Power and Ground Forces Menacing Last Positions

WASHINGTON, May 26 (AP)—Japanese resistance on Atlu Island appeared today to be crumbling fast with one of the enemy's last three main positions in American hands and a second under violent assault. Army air striking power in the Western Aleutian Islands was supporting the assault by ground forces. A navy communique said that Liberator heavy bombers, Mitchell bomber and Lightning fighters all joined the attacks on Monday.

Such heavy use of planes was the maneuver which authorities here had been hoping for. It undoubtedly resulted from a break in the weather. Tactics had predicted that when planes could be brought into play in such force, the enemy would be done for in a hurry.

Chichagof was the first of the enemy positions to fall since the Japanese forces were split last week into three groups. It was cleared of the enemy last Monday.

Fighting along Ridge

Immediately, combined units of the original American northern and southern landing groups turned to an attack along the ridge north of the valley and this, the navy communique said, "was reported as continuing."

The ridge stands as a bulwark between Chichagof valley and Chichagof harbor, one of the two remaining main enemy positions on the northeastern tip of the island where all Japanese troops have been pocketed. The other Japanese position is the area immediately north of Lake Nicholas, which is between two and three miles southeast of the Chichagof vicinity.

Monday's air attack was officially described as having started fires in the Chichagof area but authorities agreed that the damage to enemy installations undoubtedly went far beyond a few fires.

There was no mention of use of naval guns to blast the Japanese position. It is possible that fighting now has been concentrated in such a small area that naval gun fire may no longer be profitable.

Air Forces in Action

Today's communique also reported continued American aerial forays in the South Pacific where on Monday torpedo bombers and fighters attacked Japanese installations at Rinkai Cove on Kolom-Bangara Island in the Central Solomons. Results were not reported.

Tuesday, the communique added, dive bombers and fighters attacked installations at Rekata bay on Santa Isabel Island, also in the Central Solomons, and blew up ammunition dumps and started large fires.

Japanese planes attacked the 1,333-ton naval auxiliary vessel Niagara on Sunday east of Cape Surville, San Cristobal Island. The ship was so badly damaged that it subsequently was sunk by United States forces after members of the crew were taken aboard other ships. Reports reaching the Navy department indicated there were no casualties to personnel.

The Niagara, formerly a private yacht, was acquired by the navy in 1940. She was used as a motor torpedo boat tender.

Three Boys in Service

To inherit the Edsel Ford interest are his widow, the former Eleanor Lowthian Clay, to whom he was married in 1916, three sons, Henry, Benson and William, and one daughter, Josephine. The three sons are serving in the armed services, Henry as a lieutenant (j.g.) in the navy; Benson in the army air corps and William as a naval air cadet.

Sources close to the Ford family speculated today that the company's board of directors—consisting of the elder Henry Ford, Henry II, Benson and Charles E. Sorensen, vice-president and production genius of the company—would meet soon and name either the elder Ford or Sorensen president.

Ford long has insisted he wanted no title with the company. He will be eighty years old next July 30. He turned the office of president over to Edsel in 1919, soon after the latter had completed a five-year apprenticeship in factory and office and served two years as vice-president.

Sorensen was sixty-one years old last September. Danish-born, he has been associated with Ford since 1905 and has been credited with developing many projects conceived in Ford's mind. He originated the moving assembly line for mass production at the Ford-operated Willow Run plant.

At the deathbed this morning were Mrs. Edsel Ford and three of the four children. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ford were not present at the end, but hurried there as soon as possible.

Members of the Ford organization who talked with the elder Ford today said that he was bearing up better than some of his associates.

Army Inspector Placed on Trial As Bribe Taker

Joseph McCambridge Accused in Triumph Explosive Company Case

BALTIMORE, May 26 (AP)—Two former employees of Triumph Explosives, Inc., of Elktion, testified in federal court today that they paid sums ranging from $25 to $150 to Joseph A. McCambridge, former chief army inspector of ordnance at the plant, and that the transactions were not recorded on company books.

McCambridge went on trial before Federal Judge W. Calvin Chesnut and a jury today on charges of accepting $650 as bribes from the company and of approving defective material produced at the plant.

Defense attorneys William Curran and R. Palmer Ingram in opening statements contended the money received by McCambridge was either for services rendered the company or for traveling expenses incurred while on company business.

Secretary Testifies

Miss Elizabeth Jackson, former personal secretary to Joseph Ben Decker, former vice president of Triumph Explosives, and Willard Vernon, former company comptroller, testified the defendant aided the company in developing manufacturing processes.

Vernon said McCambridge had requested his name be kept off company books because "it might cause criticism" if records stated he received money from the plant.

Miss Jackson identified a list of nine sums paid to McCambridge as his "personal memo." She also identified a mortgage covering a loan from Decker for the purchase of a house by McCambridge. She said the loan in the amount of $4,300 was made by Decker, but said she could not explain why she and not Decker was made the mortgagee.

Two Checks to Wife

Vernon told the court he had made two checks payable to a Hazel McCreary, described as McCambridge's wife. One was for $600 and one for $342.60, he said. He said he understood the checks were made payable to her in order to keep the defendant's name off the company books.

Raymond Best, a chemist who was McCambridge's superior while the defendant was chief army inspector at Triumph, testified he discovered McCambridge was permitting an explosive to be produced and shipped in violation of government specifications.

Another chemist testified he analyzed photoflash bombs made at Triumph and discovered a necessary material was lacking. He said McCambridge was present at the examination and declared there were not enough inspectors at the company to closely inspect all materials manufactured there.

Special department of justice attorneys Ellis L. Arenson and William L. Paisley prosecuted the case, which will be resumed tomorrow.

hours on the stoppage, now in its fifth day, which is keeping $1,500 idle at Akron's major rubber companies. The workers are protesting a War Labor Board wage decision.

"The strikers have injured themselves because it is long established policy of the War Labor Board that it will not deal with issues so long as the workers involved are on strike," the union board declared.

Believe Decision Unfair

"The leaders of the Goodrich, Firestone and Goodyear local unions joined with the international officers in asking the board to reconsider its wage decision—which we believe to be unsound in logic and unfair in its application."

The board issued its statement at the dinner hour, then met with presidents of the three locals to discuss whether the statement should be presented for workers' consideration at a mass meeting, or at gatherings of the individual locals.

The strike has halted production of gas masks, war plane de-icers, anti-aircraft guns, combat tires and similar items.

Firestone's Coshocton, O., subsidiary, which manufactures self-sealing tanks for warplanes, closed today because of materials shortages and industry sources reported at least twenty key companies using rubber products in bombers, tanks and other war items in various cities would be affected seriously if work did not resume soon. Backlogs of some products are not high, company spokesmen explained, adding that the shutdown already has lost production of $14,000,000 to $15,000,000 of war materials.

Thousands of Men Idle

The production stoppages at the "Big Three" Akron rubber companies and at the General Tire & Rubber Co., flared with news last Saturday that the National War Labor Board has slashed to three cents an hour its panel's recommendation of an eight-cent wage increase. About 18,500 are idle at Goodyear, 17,000 at Firestone, 14,000 at Goodrich and 2,000 at General.

Sherman H. Dyalrymple, the URW's international president, presided over the executive board meeting.

Lew M. Gill, regional WLB chairman from Cleveland, and Paul F. Puler, resident labor conciliator, talked with Dyalrymple before the session. Gill said he was acting as an observer for the national WLB.

Duesseldorf Hit

the enemy's war plants falter in their efforts to supply Axis armies which must face fully-equipped Allied land invaders.

Two German night fighters were shot down by the RAF force.

It was the fifty-second attack on Duesseldorf, Germany's third largest inland port equipped with iron and steel works comparable to the great Krupp plants which once existed at Essen.

The German high command communique today announced "losses among the population as well as damage to buildings." It did not name Duesseldorf, referring only to "the West German area."

Hungary New Center

New aircraft factories already are turning out German planes in Yugoslavia, and a housing shortage has developed in Vienna, Austrian capital, because of the concentration of industry, he said. Hungary, amid mid-way between the long arm of the RAF and Russian planes hitting from the east, also is a new industrial center.

U. S. army Fortress and Liberator precision daylight attacks were said to be hastening the German industrial migration. Reconnaissance has shown that the Germans have not bothered to repair the Bremen Focke-Wulf airport, raided by the Americans April 17, and the Paris Renault tank and motor works blasted March 4.

But the American crewmen have not yet even hit their stride. Great clouds of United States daylight raiders still are to take to the skies over Germany in a swelling experiment which Prime Minister Churchill says is well worth trying in an effort to knock out the Axis from the air.

turned to Norris City, Ill., Northern terminus of the line, and said it was hoped that tank car loadings, probably at the rate of 75,000 barrels a day, could be resumed today. The line's seven-day inactivity, ODT estimated, will result in a reduction of about 800,000 barrels of petroleum to the east.

A drop in the Mississippi cheered the force struggling to save the Central Illinois Public Service generating plant at Grand Tower, Ill. Superintendent J. B. Cotter commented: "We think we have it whipped."

Engineers Use Dynamite
Army engineers dynamited breaches at the lower ends of two levees—one in Perry county, Missouri, and the other above Gales, Ill. This permitted water that had submerged 74,000 acres on the land side of the levees to pour back into the Mississippi.

At Beardstown, the Illinois river reached a crest at 29.75 feet, within a foot of the top of the rampart. The river fell at Peoria and the Keystone Steel and Wire Company resumed operations. The Weldon Springs, Mo., Ordnance Works also began production again.

Illinois selective service headquarters termed the floods the worst in Illinois since 1844, and advised local boards to defer inductions of necessary farm workers up to sixty days.

al of the company to cease recognition of an independent union of employees and to reinstate ten former employees as had been ordered by the National Labor Relations Board and the War Labor Board.

The company announced it had received another communication from the WLB today asking the government agency within twenty-four hours whether it intended to comply with the WLB's directive to reinstate a motorman who had been discharged on charges of operating a streetcar while intoxicated.

Company officials said they interpreted the communication as meaning that the only point at issue, as far as the WLB was concerned, is the question of the motorman's reinstatement.

William H. Davis, chairman of the WLB, declared that unless the company agreed to reinstate the motorman, the matter would be referred to President Roosevelt for action.

"They were met with a volley of fire and hurriedly retreated. Many Hitlerites were drowned in the river."

Volleys of Red army machinegun and artillery fire repulsed German attempts at fighting reconnaissance west of Rostov-on-Don, the communique continued, and Soviet artillery blasted away two German blockhouses, five dugouts, two observation points and five trucks. A battalion of German troops was dispersed.

Order of Bath Bestowed upon Two Americans

Eisenhower and MacArthur Entitled To Wear Gold Collars

LONDON, Thursday, May 27. (AP)—King George VI bestowed today upon Generals Dwight D. Eisenhower and Douglas MacArthur the honorary rank of Knights, Grand Cross, of the Order of the Bath, military division.

Gen. Eisenhower, Allied commander in chief in North Africa, and Gen. MacArthur, commander in chief of the Southwest Pacific, were honored "in recognition of most valuable services in command of troops of the Allied nations."

In the case of British citizens these appointments would permit the generals the title "sir" but American citizens holding office are forbidden by the constitution from accepting foreign titles without the consent of Congress.

Pershing Holds Order

Gen. John J. Pershing, commander-in-chief of the AEF in World War I, was honored similarly by King George VI.

London noted that the appointments were made simultaneously and without distinction between the commanders in major theaters of United States interest.

The appointments implied political as well as royal recognition for the services of the two generals since such appointments are made by the king only upon the advice or consent of his ministers.

The Order of the Bath is the senior order of British knighthood which has a military division. The rank of Knight, Grand Cross, is the order's first class.

It is held by such top-ranking British commanders as Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, deputy commander-in-chief in North Africa, and Field Marshal Sir Archibald P. Wavell, commander-in-chief in India.

The honorary appointments are reserved for non-British persons.

Will Get Gold Collar

The American generals will be presented the insignia of the order, a thirty-ounce gold collar with nine imperial crowns but will not receive the accolade—that is, they will not kneel before the king and be dubbed knight.

The Order of the Bath was created in 1399 but subsequently lapsed and was revived in 1725. On ceremonial occasions its members are entitled to wear a scarlet-lined mantle covering them from neck to toe.

able drop of motor fuel might be available for war workers and other essential users.

Saying he had been in communication with Security Indexes and Price Administrator Prentiss Brown O'Connor added:

"The gasoline shortage is critical. The situation will require the utmost co-operation by all our citizens if we are to avert consequences that might seriously impair our war effort. "I feel it is my duty to request that every operator of a motor vehicle within our state pledge himself to avoid its use except for absolutely essential purposes."

Col. Henry S. Barrett, state director of air raid precautions, said he was issuing an order prohibiting use of gasoline by civilian defense officials except in cases of absolute necessity.

Delay Test Blackout

He said a test blackout had been planned, but would be delayed. In the event such an alert becomes necessary, Col. Barrett added, only the principal civilian defense officials would use their cars.

Blakely said a check disclosed gasoline was beginning to arrive in Baltimore, and predicted more would come in the next few days.

Secretary Ickes had said that 175 tank cars and two barges of gasoline were on the way to Maryland and that the supply due in the next few days should "take care of essential needs."

Another Unsatisfactory Income Tax Proposal

IT IS IMPOSSIBLE, of course, to pass full judgment on the compromise federal income tax measure agreed upon by the Senate and House conferees until the various provisions of the agreement are fully known, but enough has been stated in the agreement announcement to indicate that the compromise will be highly unsatisfactory to the people.

The mongrel compromise, resulting from the unreasoning and stubborn attitude of the White House and the Treasury department, has resulted in a proposal whereby the face of the executive and the Treasury is presumably "saved" and the bulk of the taxpayers would be saddled with a doubling-up tax requirement not only discriminatory but excessively burdensome. Under the compromise plan, only 2,000,000 of the 44,000,000 federal income taxpayers would have full abatement of their 1942 liabilities, while all the rest would be soaked with an increase of twelve and a half per cent this year and next.

The compromise should be rejected. As this newspaper has before declared, and it believes it represented the sentiment of the people generally in this neck of the woods, any compromise whereby taxpayers would be obliged to double up on any part of a retroactive tax with a current tax should be defeated. Not only is the added burden a severe blow to the entire civilian economy at a time when it needs strengthening in order to sustain the war program, but the compromise proposal embodies a principle which should have no part in any scheme of American taxation, namely, a discrimination in tax abatement.

It is to be hoped that those members of the Senate and the House who have remained steadfast in their opposition to any pay-as-you-go tax system which involves collection of any part of the 1942 tax along with current taxes will stick to their guns. The compromise proposal is on the face of it preposterous and fully deserves rejection. Taxpayers should let their senators and representatives know at once how they feel about it.

The Jackal Is Groggy

A GREAT PLETHORA of RUMOR is circulating about the situation of Italy, much of it far from factual but all of it grounded in Italy's rapidly deteriorating position. It is clear that Italy is going to be knocked out of the war, but speculation may be making that development more imminent than the event actually will prove to be.

Whether Germany is deserting Italy, as some unofficial London observers say, cannot be judged at this distance. But such Nazi strategy would be the opposite of that applied in North Africa where the Axis undertook to play the holding game as long as it could. That same game could be applied to Italy in some degree if the Nazis participated in it. Italy alone is scarcely in position to hold very long anywhere.

If the Hitler advisers believe that the Allies plan to make an Italian campaign their main venture in the near future, they will probably decide to defend Italy. But if they believe an Italian invasion to be just a feint to draw Nazi strength to the peninsula while the major blow falls elsewhere in Europe, the Nazis would lose by trying to defend Mussolini's domain. Their cue would be to throw a shorter defense line along the Alps and to be in position to rush to the main point of assault.

Just what particular kind of unhappy though thoroughly deserved fate Italy will have from here on out is to be seen. But unless Italy is nearing the end as a contender, as appears likely, its cities will be leveled by Allied bombers.

Disturbing News From Hot Springs

LACK of definite source information as to what is going on at the Hot Springs International food conference may in the end work out as it has so many times in connection with secret conferences in Washington by bringing out the facts. But there is, of course, the danger that they will be exaggerated, or minimized or distorted for ulterior purposes.

But the news of the conference thus far gleaned by watchful reporters is of a most disturbing nature. Apparently the plans being considered in secrecy are going much further than merely ascertaining how much food can be sent from this country to other lands and how much the American people can do without to maintain the overseas flow of foodstuffs during the war and maybe for several years thereafter.

The discussion appears, from what information has been gleaned, to be taking the direction of a permanent agricultural planning on a global scale. Population and consumption needs and nutrition requirements and all that sort of thing appear to be projected on a world basis. Controls move into the picture, both of movement, production and price, all very tentative, to be sure, but on the fire and cooking.

The impression is thus given that a group of bureaucrats from forty-five nations, swayed by New Deal dreamings, are planning an agriculture controlled on a world basis in much the same manner the United States government has undertaken in this country in recent years, a costly experimentation that has been all but a happy one, in consequence of which the farmers are still in a plight, food shortages have occurred at a time of great need and inflation is insufficiently curbed.

Naturally those countries which require more food than they can produce are anxious to obtain the largess of those which can produce more than they need. But what incentive under a grandiose global allotment scheme would there be for those who cannot produce their own requirements to do their part toward increasing the needed world production? Would they not sit back and enjoy the supplies given them on the theory that the world owes them a living anyway?

Of course, judgment cannot be passed until the particulars are available, and it is unfortunate for this country that they have not been made available, but on the face of the overall reports the whole thing appears both fantastical and unworkable, and the direction apparently being taken points to a further regimentation of the American people and making world suckers out of them. And that is a disturbing prospect, indeed.

Tammany Hall Has Another Scrap

THE COMING SUMMER will not be entirely devoid of politics. One political diversion will be offered by a fight on Tammany within the organization. There is that to the movement which looks serious (no pun).

Phillip Dunn, an aggressive lawyer, and James Donovan, a state senator, are after the scalp of Michael Kennedy, the chief, who was installed in his berth by the aid of the Roosevelt forces. Their aim is to clean up the assembly district leaders at the primary August 10, throw Kennedy out and relegate Tammany to the status of a benevolent institution barring it permanently from participation in the affairs of the New York county Democratic committee.

In forecasting the impending doom of Tammany, Donovan said that back in the early days of this nation when America first fought for freedom a group of Revolutionary soldiers founded the society of Tammany as a patriotic and benevolent fraternity devoted to the cause of liberty. "Let us once more robe it in benevolence and retire it to private life, where it can serve as a constructive force in the preservation of the liberty it originally symbolized," he urged.

It will be news to many persons that Tammany originally was a "benevolent society." It shows what happens when politics gets the upper hand.

Give the Washington bureaucrats credit for doing one thing correctly, anyway. A bulletin advises that the Scott Paper Company, of Chester, Pa., has been placed in the category of essential industries.

That Sub-Conscious

By MARSHALL MASLIN

I'm fed up on my Sub-conscious—and you should be fed up on yours. Just as I'm fed up on mine.

You know about the Sub-conscious, of course. Everybody does, these days. Babies talk about it in their basins, children in their kindergartens, grown-ups babble about it everywhere. It's been in the limelight for years and years—and it's a spoiled character.

In fact he's a monster like the creature made by the young medical student Frankenstein out of materials gathered in tombs and dissecting rooms. He's like the octopus with the beady eyes and the snaky arms and the muddying ways. A shark, a coyote, a jackal, and a slimy eel—and he's supposed to be US, our Real Selves peeping out from our cowardly masks.

You live along for forty or fifty years, trying to be decent, trying to make people like you, trying to Do Better. People like you, respect you, think you're a Pretty Good Fellow. Sometimes you, too, begin to think you're a fairly good sort.

And then you slip up. You do something or say something that is a mistake. It just happened, you meant nothing by it. But some amateur psychologist hops on your mistake with unholy glee and shows his discovery to the whole world:

"That's the Real You. You thought you could hide it but you couldn't. Beneath all your appearance of fairness and honesty and decency, you are vain and sly and mean and don't you try to deny it. Your Sub-conscious is showing. It's slipped down like a woman's petticoat in the old days. I can see it! That is the Real You. Yah, you hypocrite!"

Well, I don't believe it. We are all of us made of two people, walking around in the same skin. But neither is a Villain and neither is an Angel. They are two parts of the same human being, trying to get along together, trying to do their best. You try to be a grateful son, a fair father, a well-behaving husband and you should receive credit for it. You don't deserve exile, sneers and catcalls merely because you slip up occasionally. And I see no reason to assume we have a leering lecherous, envious Under-Self who is the Real You and the Real Me and the Real Other Fellow.

That Sub-conscious was slipped over on us when we were looking the other way, and I think it's time he was handed his hat and shown to the door. I can get along without him, can't you?

Turmoil Is Caused In War Bureaus By Civilian Bill

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, May 26.—An inner turmoil has been stirred throughout the highest circles of the domestic war management bureaus (WPB, OPA, etc.) by Senate passage of the little-noticed Civilian Supply bill.

Despite the sternest opposition by WPB Director Donald Nelson, the administration leader, Senator Barkley, and most of the other administration senators, voted for the bill. The original idea came up from one Joseph Weiner, in charge of Mr. Nelson's minor division of civilian supply.

Mr. Nelson seemed to have stopped this pressure not only by his opposition to the bill, but by supplanting Mr. Weiner with a friend, Arthur Whiteside. It now develops, however, that Weiner has been kept on in WPB, yet hardly with the approval of Mr. Nelson.

Brown Scheduled

Reports also have been circulated persistently that Prentiss Brown, the OPA director, an unhappy man if there ever was one, will take the job in charge of a civilian supply board if the measure passes the House. He, too, has not been permitted to clean house freely in his agency. It is still full of the old Henderson crowd.

Congressmen surmise the presidential alter ego, Harry Hopkins, has been functioning from the White House to preserve friends in both WPB and OPA.

The bill has been held up in House Banking committee in order to sound out thoroughly how great an explosion it will cause in both WPB and OPA if it is passed.

Greater Air Attacks Seen

The most common outside supposition here is that the North-eastern Seaboard gas crisis is a sign of coming greater air attacks in Europe and probably invasion. It is true invasion of North Africa started shortly after the last ban on pleasure driving.

It is known, also, the army and navy made exceptionally heavy demands for gas and oil in the New York and Philadelphia areas about a month ago.

What might be called the official inside story, however, offers several sufficient technical reasons to account at least for a temporary shortage, perhaps not one of the two months duration which is promised.

The pipeline break due to floods shut off one-fifth of the normal eastern supply for a few days. But it already has been mended, and last week, the Eastern Seaboard received the largest tank car delivery in all history—800,000 barrels. The figure would have been over 1,000,000 except for the floods.

However, some tankers were sunk. Also, canal waterways were flooded and unusable. An abnormal amount of "T" coupons were cashed (apparently there is a loop-hole in this phase) at a time when some gasoline stations were shutting down, thus increasing demand on others.

Roosevelt Sidesteps Conference

Mr. Roosevelt has been so busy with war planning, he has not even been able to see the bickering House and Senate tax conferees through their days of deadlock. When they applied to the White House for a private conference and guidance, they were referred to the Treasury department.

Strikes Follow Lewis

Suspicion was strong and rather general among congressmen that some of these unexplained recent brief strikes were designed by certain labor leaders to work the same way that John L. Lewis has been working—against the "Little Steel" price-wage formula in favor of price roll-backs and against the War Labor Board. Certainly, they all expressed pressure in that direction. While all national labor leadership has been publicly anti-Lewis, there is considerable substantial evidence to suggest that he is getting secret sympathy in certain quarters. Certainly the United Auto Workers (Chrysler strike) have been almost openly sympathetic in their announced economic policy.

But Mr. Lewis is encountering in the government a difficult technical situation. Mr. Ickes has obviously tried to lean the miners' ways for a settlement several times, as could be expected in view of Mr. Ickes's political historical background. But the War Labor Board is jealous of its prerogatives, and let everyone know the matter of its integrity would have to be considered before any appeasement of Lewis could be worked out by the politicians. (Mr. Ickes in charge.)

Vocational

Vacation

From the Christian Science Monitor

Although, in accordance with long-established custom, America's schoolhouses will shortly close their doors for a three-months' period, this is far from implying that lessons will be ended. More than ever in this year of 1943, in a wide variety of activities ranging from clerking in stores to working in wheat harvests, students will be gaining a good grounding in the principles of citizenship.

The schools' long "summer recess" comes at a time when pupils, high school students especially, are urgently needed to fill gaps in the business ranks occasioned by the war. And how will young people who spent the June-to-September interval in apparently aimless relaxations react to this unaccustomed call for their services?

If the whole-hearted and energetic response to the various war stamp selling and scrap collection drives is any indication, baseball-minded Billy will continue to "swing the hickory" as of yore, but it will be a hoe handle.

Harold's chances of making the football team next year will be augmented by bucking the line via the family lawn mower, while Betty will gain practical experience in domestic science by co-operating with mother to solve the servant problem. Junior will augment the knowledge gained in high school agriculture classes on a farm.

These endeavors, serving to render the current labor shortage less acute, should have a decidedly beneficial effect upon the nation. War has converted the country into a vast "Opportunity School."

A machine has been invented to introduce ammonia gas directly into the soil as a fertilizer.

A new plastic that can be kneaded and thrust into leaks in boats has been developed.

Household ammonia will remove finger prints from window panes and glass tabletops.

Fourteen pair of Siamese twins were born in New York city in 1942.

THE STORY OF MARY AND THE PITCHER OF MILK

Trouble on Economic Front Increases Owing to the Lack of a Labor Policy

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, May 26.—Trouble on the economic front at home seems to have grown rather than diminished in intensity as the war news itself has entered a favorable cycle.

Not only have strikes broken out in greater force than heretofore, but there is a tendency to believe that work stoppages are not damaging. The orders and requests of the War Labor Board are flouted again and again. The Office of Price Administration is in a wrangle over rolling prices back, and the gasoline shortage in the eastern states has brought us nearest to the point of a breakdown in the civilian economy seen thus far in the war.

Mismanagement and incompetence are bad enough in wartime, but when these are coupled with an internal war, the results are disastrous. The war within the United States continues at almost the same pace as before Pearl Harbor. The left and right-winged are battling one another inside governmental agencies and the proponents of government ownership who hold important places in the war mechanism are the subject of considerable opposition and suspicion by the proponents of the free enterprise system.

Enterprise Seen in Danger

At bottom much of the feverish preparation known as "post-war planning," even before the war is won, is the result of fears that the free enterprise system may be superseded by some form of totalitarianism or state socialism. While the New Deal professes to be "liberal," its method of operation has been a close approximation of some of the totalitarian tactics that have suppressed freedom of enterprise in other countries.

Much is being made, incidentally, of the dissolution of the international Communist movement by the Russian government. This gesture, which is widely welcomed, will be meaningless if some method isn't found to dissolve the collectivist movement here which, in the guise of liberalism, would impose a system of state control for everything from the press to radio and from free enterprise and competition to free labor.

Labor Unions Asleep

The labor union movement, for instance, has been asleep at the switch, even as government has taken hold of the major unions and inserted its influence in almost every important step taken. Thus a few years ago the return of the wayward unions of the C. I. O. to the A. F. of L. would have been regarded as a progressive step toward labor unity, but today the return on the part of the miners' union has to undergo the scrutiny of the government itself and even the committees appointed to consider such a step must be selected from personnel known to be friendly to or under the influence of the Roosevelt administration.

The War Labor Board goes on functioning without any statutory authority to suspend collective bargaining when it pleases and to issue edicts based upon its own formulas that have no relation to any basic statute.

Confidence Lacking

In the end, the confidence of the workers cannot be maintained that way. The intrusion of governmental power, with the excuse that anything the administration says is right has to be done "to aid in the prosecution of the war," would be accepted if the formula were widely understood to be equitable. The lack of a national labor policy is now coming home to roost.

It is surprising that the Congress has allowed matters to drift without action. The Senate passed a no-strike bill introduced by Senator Connally, of Texas, Democrat. The House has been slow to take it up. Yet strikes are increasing and, since there is no penalty for calling a strike in wartime, it may be expected that the interruptions will grow. This is particularly unfortunate at a time when the whole war production program is undergoing some revision to conform to what is called a balanced schedule.

Economic Front Wobbles

Unemployment in some plants and even shutdowns may be found necessary in some instances, and it is more than ever important that the situation is explained candidly to the workers. Where is the machinery for the execution of such a policy? The administration has had the responsibility from the beginning, but the tendency here has been to delegate segments of power here and there in several agencies. There is little co-ordination and certainly no integration of policy and plan.

The gasoline fiasco is merely typical of the lack of foresight and lack of planning. The American people will bear any hardships if they are given warning and given a true explanation of the need. Some of the breakdowns are hard to explain because bureaucrats not only battle one another but they often protect one another from blame. The economic front is certainly wobbling.

Subsidies Won't Work

From the Connellsville, Pa., Courier

Red-blooded Americans prefer carrying on their business in the old way, rather than having the government turn to charity by subsidizing them. In the current chaos in price control the aim of the government, through the Office of Price Administration, is to pay producers out of the federal treasury rather than have them raise prices to the consumer. Who replenishes the treasury?

An objector to the subsidy proposal of OPA is the National Coffee Association. It warns the cost of coffee will be higher through the subsidy system, though the consumer may not know it. The president of the association puts it this way:

"The small subsidy we have been receiving has been costing the taxpayers over $7,000,000 a year without anything like that advantage to the distributor or manufacturer."

No matter how the system is worked out, the consumer pays.

Moscow Action Is Likened to Former Step on Religion

By MARK SULLIVAN

The action by Moscow last week about Communism is like its action about religion a year and a half ago. As to both, if the action reflects genuine conversion, a real change of heart—that would be good news for the world. But if the actions are mere gestures, inspired by expediency and designed for effect on the world—that would be something about.

The action about religion took place in September, 1941. It emerged as an announcement that the Russian government would grant "freedom of worship" to Poles under Russian rule, would set up a Catholic church and a Jewish synagogue in Moscow for them. The announcement was sent to Secretary of State Hull, with request that it be laid before President Roosevelt.

Explained by Roosevelt

Mr. Roosevelt, at a press conference, dwelt upon Moscow's action. He said that the status of religion in Russia is the same as in the United States. Illustrating, he said that here in Washington anybody is free to set up a soap box on Pennsylvania avenue and preach religion—and equally free to set up a soap box and preach against religion. This, Mr. Roosevelt said, is the way it is in Russia. For confirmation he asked the newsmen to read Article 124 of the Russian constitution. This the newsmen did, and the next day printed what Mr. Roosevelt had said, together with the text of Article 124. It read:

"Freedom of religious worship, and freedom of anti-religious propaganda, is recognized for all citizens."

The whole incident, including the American president's patness with an article of the Russian constitution, had a faint suggestion of planned intention to make America feel kindly toward Russia. There was occasion for it. There was pending before the American Congress a bill to extend lend-lease aid to Russia the same as to Britain. (This was before we were in the war). To get that aid, Stalin would no doubt have been willing to join every sect in America, from Adventist to Universalist.

Window Dressing Suspected

If Stalin's action was meant as propaganda, it back-fired, seriously. Americans familiar with Moscow's real attitude about religion pointed out, first, that the so-called Communist constitution was window-dressing—it had been got up to impress opinion outside Russia, and Communist practice had never conformed to the pseudo-constitution. Second, it was pointed out that Article 124 was cunningly worded. Religious "worship" was permitted. On the other hand, anti-religious teaching was permitted—and in fact was actively carried on by agencies under government domination.

An American Catholic priest, Rev. Edmund A. Walsh, S. J., stationed in Russia in 1922 and ever since a student of Russian affairs, recited in detail the harsh persecution of all religions by the "frankly atheistic government" of Russia. Methodist Bishop Raymond J. Wade of Detroit, in words perhaps too angry, based out at Mr. Roosevelt's assertion that the status of religion in Russia was the same as in America. That assertion, Bishop Wade said, "was utterly misleading . . . obviously untrue."

Harriman at Work

Mr. Roosevelt was disturbed. He said he had been misinterpreted, and gave out the exact words he had used at his press conference. In answer to newsmen's question at a subsequent conference, he said he had really been trying to persuade Stalin to change his attitude on religion. Asked who had been his representative in the evangelizing of Stalin, he named Mr. W. Averell Harriman, then in contact with Moscow on lease-lend matters. As a religious missionary, Mr. Harriman had a strong worldly equipment—he was in charge of the lease-lend material Stalin wanted. Since October, 1941, there has been no public report of further progress in the conversion of Stalin. Possibly Mr. Joseph E. Davies, now on mission to Moscow, may keep up the good work—he is a powerful exhorter.

Step Likely Genuine

It is not necessary to be too completely skeptic about Moscow's attitudes, either as to religion or as to last week's step backward from international Communism. "It is possible the Russian leaders may have learned two things—the validity of religion and the invalidity of Communism. They may have found that religion conforms to the nature of man, and that Communism runs counter to it. Learning this, they may really be moving toward the one, away from the other."

It is a fact that, over a period of years, the Russian leaders have dropped one after another of the original tenets of pure Communism. It is quite possible that Moscow's actions last week is a genuinely meant step in permanent policy.

Morning Motto

In the light of eternity we shall see that what we desired would have been fatal to use, and that what we would have avoided was essential to our well-being.—FENELON.

Wages Boom
for Berry Pickers

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Strawberry pickers of the Ozark are being paid this season at the highest rate since the World War, four cents a box. The growers offered that price in the hope they could attract 6,500 workers needed to get the crop out of the fields.

Quarantined Gal
Fails a Furlough

COFFEYVILLE, Kas. (AP)—Sergeant C. H. Yorke of the Coffeyville Air Base went all the way to Medway, Maine, to see his girl while he was on furlough recently. When he arrived there he discovered she was quarantined in a defense plant along with other workers to keep them from catching a communicable disease that had invaded the town. "It cost me $110 and I only talked with her on the telephone," moaned the sergeant.

WAACs Rush
The Mails

PORT OGLETHORPE, Ga. (AP)—WAACs love to write letters, it seems. The station postoffice here figured feminine members of the corps send from 35 to 40 per cent more mail than a comparable number of men in the army, and are receiving proportionately that many more letters in return. Their package mail is 50 per cent higher, it is estimated.

Rubs It In

FORT SHERIDAN, Ill. (AP)—Captain C. L. Bush, commanding officer of the Service Company here, had a problem. The Ft. Sheridan Tower reports that he received a telephone call from a man AWOL nine days, asking if he could permit the absentee another 25 hours extension of his absence without leave. Captain Bush was unable to find a regulation under which the absence could be officially extended.

Spaniel Buries
Ersatz Bone

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—This dog-bone situation is a gettin' serious. James G. Johnson saw his grandson's cocker spaniel dash by with something in its mouth. Johnson watched the cocker bury the object and then dug it up himself. It was a chip of wood, soaked with car oil drippings.

Army Tribute

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Major General Harry J. Malony, commanding general of the 94th infantry division in training at Camp Phillips sent this Mother's Day greeting to the mother of every man in his fighting outfit:

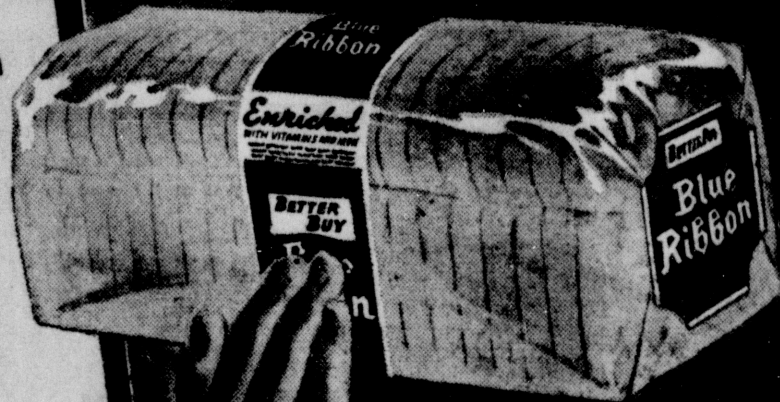

"The spirit of the mothers of America will bring victory to our armed forces and peace to all the world."

Breaks His Jaw
To Join Marines

NEWARK, N. J. (AP)—Ten years ago Ralph D'Angelo fractured his jaw in a fall and since then was unable to open his mouth more than an inch. When he tried to enlist in the Marines, he was told he must be able to open his jaws wider. So he went to a doctor and had the jaw broken and reset.

ENRICHED BREAD

BETTER BUY BLUE RIBBON BREAD

Your 3-meal-a-day
CEREAL!

Ever stop to think that Bread is the original cereal food? That the U. S. Government urges you to eat more cereals? That we have plenty of wheat in the U.S.A.? That cereals are nourishing—and can well supply up to half of the protein you need every day? That other protein-rich food is scarce and of high ration point value? That BLUE RIBBON BREAD—that fine cereal food—is Enriched with extra Vitamin B<sub>1</sub>, Niacin and Iron? Be smart! Eat more BLUE RIBBON Enriched BREAD... it's the kind of cereal food you really like—and it's good at every meal... serve it in slices, as toast, and as an ingredient in delicious cooked dishes.

*ACTUAL LABORATORY TEST REVEALS SECRETS OF BLUE RIBBON'S BETTER KEEPING QUALITY—VITAL TO PATRIOTIC AMERICANS

We put the problem up to America's foremost bread scientists... experts in a great cereal laboratory. "People say," we told them, "that BLUE RIBBON Enriched BREAD does keep better than other breads. Find out the facts... then we can tell the real truth to the public."

So a corps of scientists went to work. They tested... they weighed... they kept loaves of BLUE RIBBON Enriched BREAD and loaves of ordinary bread under microscopic scrutiny for day after day. Here's what they finally reported:

At the end of three days BLUE RIBBON Enriched BREAD's crumb was 30% softer than that of ordinary bread in ordinary wrappers. What's more: ordinary bread had lost 3.29% of its weight

...while BLUE RIBBON Enriched BREAD had lost less than 1%. And that means loss of moisture—the factor that makes bread palatable and fresh-seeming!

HERE'S WHY THIS IS EXTRA-IMPORTANT—NOW!

You are urged to shop less frequently by the U. S. Government. If you cooperate—as, of course, every patriotic American will—it means that you will no longer buy bread every day. So, naturally, you will want to buy BLUE RIBBON—the bread that stays fresh longest. Then you will be able to enjoy fresher, softer, moister deliciousness of flavor for more meals. The way to be sure is tell your grocer you want...

SMALL BLUE RIBBON: the "just-enough" size for the small family's daily bread.

LARGE BLUE RIBBON: the generous loaf for care of the average family's bread needs.

Deal third term forces. Thomas, of course, was on the scene, but not in harmony with the Phillips-controlled delegation.

Generally, Senator Thomas has supported the president on major domestic and foreign policy. That is, with the exception of recent agricultural issues. A farm bloc leader, Thomas has insisted on hiking parity and boosting prices. In fact, this goal of high farm prices long ago inspired his cheap money policy.

Thomas objects to what he calls the administration tendency to favor labor over farmers, but Moore deplors "dictation of a labor government," but would junk the whole Wagner act and start over.

Such "drastic action," however, is opposed by Thomas.

Thomas Cautions

With the election of 1944 staring him in the face, Thomas moves with increasing caution. Moore, independent and politically stubborn, already has announced he will have nothing to do with public office after his term expires in 1948.

Speaking recently before the Oklahoma delegation, Senator Moore frankly admitted that he expected to leave Washington the most unpopular man who ever went out. "But if I have the approval of a few men who have confidence in me and myself, then I will be satisfied," he concluded.

Both senators grew up as poor farm lads, Moore in Missouri and Thomas in Indiana. Both likewise taught school to finance their law course, but once they hung out their shingle, they got entirely different ideas. In later life, Moore turned to the oil business and became immensely rich. Thomas focused on politics, stepping from the state legislature to congress, and then to the senate in 1926.

Before their terms expire, the two senators may be at political dagger points. At least, relations between them have cooled considerably, since Senator Moore formally withdrew his support from the nomination of Stephen Chandler for federal judge. Senator Thomas had long been trying to get this prize judicial plum for his close friend and political supporter, and just as the last hurdle seemed clear, Senator Moore put up an expected obstacle and the appointment was pigeonholed.

Rapid Heart Beat and Blood Pressure Prove Wartime Problems for Doctors

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

"When the foeman bares his steel, Tarantara, tarantara! We uncomfortable feel! Tarantara! For when threatened with emetics, Tarantara, tarantara! Our hearts are in our boots."

So sang the policeman in "The Pirates of Penzance," and I suppose every man and woman in our armed forces has had at one time or the other something of these feelings. As a young fellow who has just made his first parachute jump said to me, "Anybody who tells you that he isn't scared when he jumps into the air on that first occasion is a liar."

The heart, second only to the stomach is affected by emotions. Fear, anxiety and apprehension that you will not measure up to your responsibility and duty are emotions, and since they are rife in wartime, it is quite natural that we have problems for the heart specialist at this time.

The problems divide themselves into two groups: first, what heart conditions in the recruit are serious enough to warrant rejection for service; and, second, the treatment of the soldier who develops a nervous, irritable heart during active service.

Troubles of Heart Specialist

I have just read some of the troubles of a heart specialist assigned to a draft board; it takes me back to World War I. The two greatest problems were what to do with an apparently healthy recruit who had a pulse disturbance and what to do with the otherwise healthy recruit whose blood pressure was jumpy. Both of these things are, as a matter of common experience, affected by emotions.

Everybody has had the experience of having the heart pound when facing a crisis, major or minor, such as waiting to go in and ask for a job, getting up the nerve to propose marriage, walking down the aisle to get married, etc., etc. Some people's hearts are more unstable than others, so we have the problem of the nervous young man who begins to have a fast heart rate whenever a medical examiner puts a stethoscope on his chest.

The normal pulse rate is 70 to a minute. What are they going to say about a fellow who has a rate of 120 persistently over many examinations? The question is: Will he calm down after he gets in service, or will he be a liability when the guns begin to shoot and the foeman bares his steel? The English are more hard-boiled than we are and will take nearly anybody who has a pulse rate of 120. Slow pulses are not so much of a problem; nearly any of these are acceptable.

Blood Pressure

Blood pressure is very much the same thing. It rises quickly and usually under emotion. The English have continuously taken men for active service who have a blood pressure of 180 or over.

The nervous heart of the soldier is an old story. It was described in detail by the Philadelphia physician, Dr. Costa, in our own Civil war; he called it irritable soldier's heart. In World War I we gave it a very fancy name, neuro-circulatory asthenia. All we can say about it is that some people in military life develop a permanently rapid pulse—up to 120 or 160—and are easily fatigued, nervous and irritable.

My own experience was that nothing could ever be done with them and that they had better be sent back to civil life. This, however, sets a bad precedent. Dr. Costa, in the Civil war time, felt that even though the treatment was long and troublesome, it would be better to assign these men to some sort of duty than to return them to their homes.

Questions and Answers

R. J.: I was examined for the army and put in class 4-F on account of mitral stenosis. Please tell me what this is and how I got it.

Answer: Mitral stenosis is a form of valvular disease of the heart. It is caused by acute inflammatory rheumatism.

H. T. M.: What is the reason for night sweating and loss of weight in a man in his middle forties? Answer: The chances are tuberculosis ninety-five per cent.

J. D. S.: Is it harmful for a woman 44 years of age to take six thyroid tablets of one grain each day for losing weight?

Answer: It certainly is. That is a tremendous dose. Why not diet?

Pole Lima Beans Profitable in Victory Garden

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Released by Central Press Association

BECAUSE POLE lima beans are prolific producers, it is profitable to plant them in the Victory garden. It should be remembered, however, that they require a richer soil than bush beans. Only one planting, for they will continue to bear all through the season.

Pole lima beans can be planted in rows or hills. If the beans are to be planted in hills, remove one or two shovelfuls of soil and put a shovelful of manure in the hole. Cover the manure with soil to a height of four to six inches. Plant six or eight seeds in each hill. When the young plants attain a height of four inches thin them out, leaving only the four-sturdiest plants.

Pole limas are rank growers and require strong supports. The poles used should not be less than 12 feet tall with about 15 inches of the pole set firmly into the soil, as illustrated. Rough barked poles aid the vines in clinging.

When the vegetable garden is located in a windy area, additional strength for pole limas can be obtained by letting them climb on a wigwam of poles, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph. Four poles should be set on a slant, as illustrated with the lower end of each stake or pole resting near a hill of the beans. Such a wigwam of poles when bolted or tied together at the top and set firmly in the ground is not apt to be blown over during a wind storm.

Local Red Cross Is Thanked for Sweaters By Officer Overseas

A second lieutenant serving overseas has sent a V-mail letter to the Allegheny County Chapter, American Red Cross, thanking the organization on behalf of his battalion for the knitted sweaters made by the chapter which they received.

The lieutenant, Jerry S. Chaney, is not known to any of the local Red Cross officials but they liked his letter just the same.

He wrote in part, "We deeply appreciated your sweaters, I can't begin to describe to you the feeling of contentment and happiness that overcomes a soldier when he knows the country he is fighting for and loves refuses to forget him."

"The work you are doing can only be classified as paramount and indispensable in building up the morale of our forces everywhere", he concluded.

HIGH SCHOOL BOYS MAY BE RECRUITED TO HARVEST CROPS

At the state meeting of county farm and home demonstration agents in Baltimore this week, which Ralph F. McHenry and Miss Maude A. Bean attended, plans were made to see what could be done to aid farm labor situations in various areas in the state.

Among the plans discussed, according to County Agent McHenry, were the recruiting of high school boys to aid with certain crops, establishing farm camps, the training program of the Women's Land Army at the University of Maryland, use of migratory labor, and co-operation with the selective service systems in reserving experienced farm workers for deferment.

The discussion revealed, McHenry said, that the situation in this county is not at all critical when compared to that in the eastern part of the state. He added that special help will probably be needed for the apple harvests, but the method of obtaining it is yet to be determined.

B. & O. Victory Club Will Hold Picnic Aug. 3

The Baltimore and Ohio Health for Victory Club will hold a picnic in Constitution park August 3. Plans were made at the business meeting of the group yesterday afternoon at the Queen City hotel. Mrs. Vada Drumm Barnard appointed Mrs. Frank W. Bailey, to represent various departments on the committee. Mrs. C. M. Kennedy the roundhouse group; Mrs. W. L. Dook, the car department group; Mrs. Roy Eves the home and forge group and Mrs. A. H. Bennett the backshop group.

The election of officers of the club will be held at the June meeting and it was decided to have a president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer as well as chairman of each group, instead of just a president and chairman with the secretary appointed for each meeting as was the practice this year.

Following the business meeting Miss Christine Buehl, spoke on "Drying Foods for Victory," and urged her audience to solve next winter's food problems by preserving vegetables and fruits now.

In explaining dehydration and wining as the methods of preserving the foods, she explained that the former, or drying, is one of the best ways to preserve non-acid vegetables, and that the secret of its success is in removing enough moisture to prevent spoilage. For the speaker pointed out, harmful bacteria, which causes spoilage, cannot thrive without moisture. The best vegetables for this method of preserving, Miss Buehl listed as corn, peas, carrots and okra; and the fruits as apples, peaches and strawberries do not dry well she continued, but dewberries, blackberries, gooseberries and raspberries are excellent for drying.

Six steps as the proper methods for dehydration were listed as: tree ripened fruit free from blemishes; dry immediately; blanch; make sure there is an even flow of air circulating through the evaporator; provide sufficient heat to dry the fruit as quickly as possible without scorching; and store the dehydrated foods in a cool, dry dark place.

Turning to brining as a method of preserving foods, Miss Buehl said it does two things; with draws moisture from the food making it impossible for harmful bacteria to thrive and creates a chemical action that enables desirable bacteria to grow. The two methods of dry salt and wet salt were explained.

Laborites Refuse

plan for a separate headquarters was not the action of the federation, but of Cumberland people who made entertainment arrangements.

F. C. Ellis of Baltimore urged Negro delegates to withdraw the resolution and "expunge it from the records of this convention."

Document Is Rejected
On a standing vote, the recommendation of the resolutions committee that the document be rejected was carried. The federation now has six vice-presidents, all white, who are members of the executive board.

Another hot debate occurred over consideration of a resolution requesting the national executive committee "to accord the International Association of Machinists the same consideration as is granted to all other affiliated unions."

One of the sponsors, Lee E. Roe of Washington, declared that AFL President William Green had consistently refused to define the jurisdiction of the IAM, and said the international planned to withdraw unless some settlement was reached shortly.

Buxbaum declared the resolution out of order as interfering in a jurisdictional dispute. Roe appealed to the full convention, which upheld Buxbaum.

Resolutions approved by the convention:
1. Placed delegates on record as condemning "all attempts to obtain legislation, amendments and enactments which tend to undermine the solidarity and unity of the American people in an effort to legislate out of existence the alcoholic beverage industry."

Recommended Consolidation
2. Recommended the consolidation of such agencies as the National Labor Relations Board, the WLB, the War Manpower Board, and other groups into a "centralized war labor governing authority" headed by a representative of organized labor.

3. Supported President Roosevelt in his fight against adoption of the Ruml tax plan.

Calling for labor representation on policy-making war agencies. Asking the federal government to adjust its manner of paying for overtime so that workers receive one and one-half time instead of one and one-tenth time.

The report of the committee on education called for encouragement of adult education and establishment of professionally conducted child care centers to supplement home training without attempting to replace it. The report asked support of the federation of teachers' union programs in the state, including a system of annual increments for successful teaching, of not less than $150 a year for eight successive years.

Officers Re-elected
Officers re-elected were: Robert J. Buxbaum, Baltimore, president; Frank J. Coleman, Washington, secretary; Robert C. Lester, Washington, treasurer; Vincent T. McHenry, Washington, organizer; John Locher and Charles B. McClosky, Washington; G. Kingston Howard and Carl G. Sholtz, Baltimore; E. W. Butler, Hagerstown, and Paul W. England, Cumberland, vice-presidents.

CONSTITUTION PARK SOUGHT BY SCOUTS FOR JUNE CAMPOREE

It was announced that four district troops, Nos. 13, 19, 23 and 71, have made application for reservations at the annual Potomac Council summer camp which will be held at Millerson's on the South Branch in July.

Potomac Council's executive board will meet this evening at 7:30 o'clock at the home of Dr. Frank U. Davis, president, 24 Washington street.

SYNOPSIS

Notified that her brother, MELVIN MARSDEN, is missing in action, JEAN MARSDEN, who has risen to the top as a fashion model, quits her job to become secretary to STEVE LANDIS, director of a new rubber plant in Mexico. Jean has an abrupt introduction to carefree, handsome CURLEY, employed by MR. AND MRS. PARKINSON, owners of the Rancho Casolina. Jean appears to have roused the jealousy of ROSITA, pretty little Mexican girl who is in love with Curley.

YESTERDAY: Jean receives a grim warning to let "Senor Curley alone or else..."

CHAPTER TWELVE

JEAN HAD just laid a pile of finished letters on Steve's desk and had gone back to her typewriter when they both heard the roar of an airplane overhead. Steve shot Jean a searching look as he saw delicate color suddenly flush her cheeks. The roar, at first distant, no more than a drone really, grew louder and louder by the second, until it fairly shook the building as the plane almost grazed the roof of the office before sweeping on toward the rancho. Jean's first impulse was to run to the window, and then when she looked at Steve's face something held her to her chair. When the roar had faded to a distant drone again, Steve gave a short laugh of disgust.

"That guy would kill himself just for a laugh!" Steve was doubly irritated, she knew, because Curley's stunting over the building was a salute to her. She found herself defending him. "I guess certain people are born without a sense of fear. Curley's like that."

"Why stop there?" Steve scoffed. "A sense of fear or a sense of anything else?"

"Well, he has a sense of humor," Jean parried lightly. "I'm admit, a queer one at times."

Steve's eyes wandered over the neatly written pages of his letters, but he didn't know really what he had read. He had something on his mind, something that was crowding out all other thoughts. He glanced across at Jean who was lost in her work, his eyes following the perfect line of her profile, the soft sweep of her blond hair as it rose in a soft billow from her high forehead, the straight figure with delicately curving lines. Then he cleared his throat as if in warning of words that were to come. Jean had learned almost from the first day that this was a habit of Steve's when he had some thing of importance on his mind. Her rapidly flying fingers stopped and she turned to face him.

"I was just wondering," he began, "if I could help you move in your things tonight?"

For an instant Jean resented this subtlety. Why didn't he come right out in the open and ask her if she were moving back to the hotel? Then she pushed resentment aside and, with a casual tone to her voice, she answered, "Thanks, anyway, but there's nothing left to move. I brought my clothes in this morning and dropped them at the hotel before I came to work." She couldn't help an inward smile at the pleased way that Steve muttered, "Oh, that's fine!"

For the next 30 minutes, until the quivering bell rang at 5 o'clock, Steve whistled a lively dance tune in low tones. Jean couldn't help but reflect what her father had told her a long time ago, "Grown folks are really big children. Basically, they aren't a bit different." Wasn't that just like a boy gloating over a small victory? He was happy now—now that he had gotten his own way!

The bell rang sharply. Jean finished the letter she was typing, straightened the things on her desk, repaired her makeup briskly and turned to leave. "Good night," she called over her shoulder as she left the room. She closed the door on Steve's "good night."

As she sped along in the company car over the winding desert road she felt a tenseness take possession of her—she felt as though she had suddenly been caught in opposing tides. She was glad Curley was back and yet she couldn't quite explain to herself why. Rosita was the one to be glad, and yet it was SHE who had received the non-sensical telegram. She MUST have been in his thoughts. This pleased her strangely, yet with that pleasure came a grim foreboding, a warning that she should forget this man. Put him out of her thoughts before he had secured a more treacherous hold on them!

She ran the car under the shade of a giant pepper tree at the side of the hotel and started up the worn stone steps to her little room. Every step was a supreme effort. A strange weariness kept pulling at her. She felt suddenly lost, let down in this land of romance. Romance! It sounded silly, empty now. Where was there any romance to this sun-baked land of the Aztecs? The closeness of her room, the bare walls, the sight of the old iron bed seemed to nauseate her. The walls to crowd in upon her and crush all the spirit from her tired body. She flung herself on the bed and fought to hold back a flood of tears. Nostalgic pictures flashed through her mind—pictures of Henri and his shop—the good times she had had in her work. Dances at the Rainbow Roof with her own crowd of friends, laughing and dancing to the sweet rhythm of a New York band.

She had been a fool to give all this up to come down here on an impulsive wave of patriotism! She was roused abruptly by the sound of footsteps on the stone steps. She brushed hot tears from her eyes as she waited. A knock on her door. She called, "Who is it?" But she knew, by the sharp, sudden pounding of her heart, who it was before the low, rich tones of his voice came through.

"Curley!" She got quickly to her feet, hurriedly swept a powder puff over her face, a touch of red to her lips and opened the door. Curley stood grinning, taking her all in from the tips of her brown suede pumps to the bright green bow nestled in her soft blond hair.

"I knew there was some reason why I wanted to get home, and now I remember—it was to see you," he said.

When Jean was hoping the darkness of her room was hiding the flush she could feel on her cheeks, "Mexico City didn't seem so dull that in-corrugible line of yours," she scoffed.

"I was never more sincere in my life," Curley protested.

"That's easy to believe, but were you ever sincere in your life?" "Well, how do you like that! Here I go away for three days that seem eternity and this is the kind of a homecoming I get!" He gave her a sudden twinkling scrutiny. "Or were you crying for me?"

"Not tonight, but it's a charming idea I must try some time," Jean murmured.

"Thanks," cried Curley. "And now you're coming back to the rancho with me for our homecoming dinner—and no excuses!" When Jean hesitated, he swept her up easily in his arms and carried her down the stone steps, Jean kicking and laughing at the same time. "Put me down, you fool! What will the neighbors think?"

"The neighbors, they will say, 'There is that crazy Americano again!'" He tossed her into the front of his decrepit, sagging Fordango, and went around to climb over the door and under the steering wheel in one fluid motion. A dark curling lock of hair hung over one eye. The car started with a terrific wheezing roar, and they charged off down the narrow, cobblestone street, with Curley waving and hallooing to half the town now lured out for the sight, while he looked and shouted imprecations at the naked Mexican youngsters swarming in the road ahead.

Curley raised his head in a long, happy shout that reverberated through the hills. Then he turned to her, dark eyes flashing in a look that brought the blood to her cheeks. His voice was low, almost brooding. "Now I've got you with me, the rest of the universe can go hang!"

"Will you watch the road?" cried Jean. She had to have time to regain her control. For, in that split second when her eyes looked into his, her heart had helplessly echoed his words!

One for the Books-- A Serious Comedian

Here's a new one for the books—a comedian who wants to be just that, nothing else.

The gentleman in question is Gus Schilling, who was virtually reared in burlesque and who has made quite a hit as a film comedian in Hollywood.

All Gus asks of the movies is that they keep him in his place—let him make people laugh. But that isn't happening, instead, he has the role of a fast-talking "heavy" in Universal's "Hi, Buddy."

The exciting new rhythm-drama now at the Liberty theater, has Robert Paige, Harriet Hilliard, Dick Foran and Marjorie Lord in its cast of headline entertainers.

Roy Rogers Western Showing at Embassy

Cowboy star Roy Rogers' local fans will form a long queue when his latest "hoss opera" on his Republic contract, "King of the Cowboys," opens today at the Embassy theater.

"King of the Cowboys," produced on a large budget scale, promises the ultimate in western entertainment. Roy is backed up by a sterling cast including not only Smiley Burnette and the famous Sons of the Pioneers band, but Peggy Moran, Dorothea Kent, Gerald Mohr, Lloyd Corrigan, James Bush and Russell Hicks as well.

The background of the story is a colorful travelling circus, which is used as a foil for a gang of saboteurs.

Dog Reveals Death Of His Mistress

GRANITE QUARRY, N. C. —(AP)—The little black spaniel was disturbed. It ran frantically from house-to-house—antics foreign to the tiny dog which never left home unless at the heels of its mistress. Finally neighbors followed Spot home. On her bed they found the dog's elderly mistress. She had died in her sleep.

Vegetables such as celtuce and fennel are recommended for the small Victory garden, as well as the large, but this does not mean that they need to be grown in quantities. A small planting of either of them will afford variety.

From where I sit...

by Joe Marsh

BH! Burry was reflecting back on the last war and what the boys used to do when they got a furlough.

"We weren't a hard-drinking bunch particularly, but that was in Prohibition," said Bill, "and forbidden fruit always seems worth goin' after. We'd hunt up a bootlegger, which was easy, and buy a bottle."

"So, instead of a beer or two, well—I guess we generally drank too much!... wonder what the boys are doing this time?"

I got out the official report the Office of War Information made and read him this: "The fact that there is vastly less drinking among soldiers in this war may stem in part from the sale of beer in camps."

From where I sit, it certainly doesn't look as if we had to worry about our boys. We learned our lesson in the last war, and I'm glad to see we're on the right track now.

Columbia Studio, which has had a strange affinity for Washington, D. C. locales down through the years, has just consigned still another capital edifice to storage in its scene docks.

This time it is the imposing Department of Justice building or at least those portions thereof necessary for a visit of Jean Arthur and Joel McCrea to the head office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Included are the marble front of the structure, the entrance doorways and foyer, a bank of elevators, and upper hallway and a suite of offices.

The whole thing takes place in a sequence of Columbia's "The More the Merrier," timely George Stevens' production opening tomorrow at the Maryland theater.

Garden Program Has Comedy and Mystery

Currently playing at the Garden theater is "The Talk of the Town," starring Ronald Coleman, Jean Arthur and Gary Grant. Well produced the picture is a fast-moving comedy, with plenty of drama. Edgar Buchanan, Glenda Farrell, Charles Dingle and Emma Dunn are included in the cast.

The co-feature at the Garden today is "Sherlock Holmes and the Voice of Terror," starring Basil Rathbone, Nigel Bruce and Evelyn Ankers. This is the first in an exciting new series.

Many medicinal purges work on you—by prodding the intestines into action or drawing water into them from other parts of the body.

But KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN—a crisp, delicious breakfast cereal—works mainly on the contents of your colon. If you have normal intestines and your constipation is due to lack of "bulk" in your diet, you'll find ALL-BRAN a much gentler way to treat it.

Listening in silence from the Democratic side, the senior senator canceled Moore's "nay" with a vote to confirm his former colleague.

Pirates, Sparked By DiMag, Blast Brooklyn 17 to 4

Bucs Rudely Awaken Loop Leaders, Opening First Western Tour

PITTSBURGH, May 26 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates plastered a 17 to 4 defeat on the Brooklyn Dodgers today to rudely awaken the National League leaders to the dangers they face on their first Western tour of the season.

There never was anything resembling a contest to the affair. The Pirates scored a run in the first off Max Macon, knocked him out with a five-run explosion in the second stanza and then turned the game into a farce in the third with nine runs off Les Webber after two were out.

In their two big innings the Pirates sent twenty-six batters to the plate, fifteen of them in the third when Webber gave six hits and six walks.

Vince DiMaggio hit a homer with one on in the second inning and another with two aboard in the third to lead Pittsburgh's attack, which totaled sixteen hits.

Fred Fitzsimmons went to the mound for Brooklyn at the start of the fourth and checked the Pirates till the seventh when Rookie Tommy O'Brien tripled for two final runs and was thrown out at the plate trying to make his hit a homer.

Wally Hebert, who was a pitcher for the St. Louis Browns ten years ago came back from the minors this spring, coasted to his second victory, yielding twelve hits. The box:

Profits of the game will be donated to the Chicago Servicemen's Center, which weekly feeds and entertains 125,000 servicemen.

Bears Won Last Year

The site of the contest, it was announced tonight, was changed from Soldier Field, where last fall 101,000 spectators saw the Chicago Bears defeat the All-Stars, 21 to 0, to Dwyer stadium to restrict attendance, as far as possible, to fans in the Chicago area, in keeping with the wishes of the Office of Defense Transportation.

The net profits of last year's contest, which amounted to $153,945.92, were contributed to army emergency relief and navy relief. No other single sports event raised as much for war charity.

Although many of last year's collegiate stars are now in the service of their country, the All-Star squad is expected to compare well with its predecessors. The Chicago Tribune Charles, Inc., sponsor of the game, is asking no blanket release of players in the service. However, several outstanding players in 1942 college football already have received permission from their commanding officers to participate.

No "Fan Poll"

For the first time there will be no "fan poll" to determine this year's starting lineup for the collegians. Also, for the first time the squad will include undergraduate players. The coaching staff is to be appointed.

The Redskins, headed by Sammy Baugh, will train at San Diego, Calif. The All-Stars will assemble at Northwestern university, August 7, for three weeks of practice.

The program brought an $11.20 daily double pay-off to 220 ticket holders. Two heavily-played favorites figured, H. G. Tonkin's Oomph won the first at $3.50, and A. L. Keith's Zellen Zee took the second paying $4.20.

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., May 26 (AP)—The longest mutual of the current meeting at the Charles Town race track—a healthy $155.60—went to backers of Flying Junior, a three-year-old gelding owned by C. E. Nelson, of Washington, D. C., in the feature of today's program.

Flying Junior paid $47.20 to place and $12.80 to show.

Eased up in his previous start when his rider was blinded by mud, the three-year-old led Mrs. L. M. Hansen's Ler-Lin to the wire by a length and a half. In third position was the Shenandoah stable's Fair Flame.

It was the thoroughbred's second triumph in two years of campaigning.

Redskins To Meet College Football Stars August 25

No "Fan Poll" Will Be Conducted To Determine All-Star Lineup

CHICAGO, May 26 (AP)—The tenth All-Star football game, which annually opens the nation's gridiron season, will be played by the Washington Redskins, champions of the National League, and a squad of selected college headliners at Dwyer stadium, in suburban Evanston, on the night of August 25.

Dwyer stadium, with a standing room capacity of 50,000, is the home football field of Northwestern university.

Profits of the game will be donated to the Chicago Servicemen's Center, which weekly feeds and entertains 125,000 servicemen.

Golf Association To Sponsor Club Charity Matches

Organization Still Guiding Sport through Pitfalls of War Years

NEW YORK, May 26 (AP)—The United States Golf Association is in a state of suspended animation as far as golf tournaments are concerned, but it still is very much alive in guiding the sport through the pitfalls of the war years.

There will be no national event, such as the Hale America open that was held last year, but starting this weekend the association is sponsoring a series of club competitions for charity. The proceeds of this weekend's events will go to the Red Cross, as will the proceeds of the similar events scheduled the weekends of Memorial day and July 4. Labor day weekend the National War Fund will be the beneficiary.

Few Clubs Have Folded

"Last year we traced $101,301 which was raised by 851 clubs for the Red Cross alone," Executive Secretary Joe Dey said. "We traced $309,000 donated to war relief and recreational funds from 1,296 sources, and there undoubtedly were thousands of dollars in donations which were not reported."

Dey added that, although most of the member clubs are having their struggles to exist, with gas rationing, the ban on pleasure driving and one thing and another, the percentage of clubs which have folded is surprisingly small, and oddly enough the dues collections are from ten per cent to twenty per cent ahead of last year.

De pointed out that innumerable clubs are using parts of their courses for victory gardens, with the members actually doing the work themselves.

Association Loses Money

The association itself loses money in war years, due to the absence of tournament profits. He said the loss this year will run around $6,000.

"We must maintain our greens section at Washington," he explained. "Now, with shortage of labor, course upkeep is a major problem."

As far as the individual clubs are concerned, those close to public transportation are in the best position to carry on with a minimum of loss, Dey pointed out. The outlying clubs, particularly in the Eastern area where private cars cannot be used for pleasure, are the ones which will suffer most.

Home victory gardens also are playing a part in the decrease in play, many club members forsaking their links pleasure to dig and hoe.

Sarazen's Sand Iron Now Rests In USGA Museum

Mongrel Sort of Links Tool Took Profanity Out of Sand Traps

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, May 26 (AP)—The iron which took the profanity out of sand traps, which won the British and American open championships in 1932, and which largely is responsible for the era of low scoring since that time now rests unobtrusively in the collection of other famous links tools in the U. S. G. A. museum.

It's a mongrel sort of club, is this sand iron which Gene Sarazen has donated to golf's hall of fame for inanimate objects. The head resembles a niblick, only it has a heavy flange at the bottom made even heavier by frequent doctorings with lead until it resembles the work of an amateur plumber trying to fix a leaky pipe. The grip has been heavily wound until it is large enough for a player to get his hooks around with some degree of firmness.

But it's the daddy of the present-day sand iron without which tournament scores would creep upward. "Back in 1932," Sarazen explains, "I had an idea that the sand club Bobby Jones was using, with concave face, was illegal, which it was subsequently ruled. I set about to devise a sand iron of my own."

Club Quickly Copied
"I experimented around and finally came up with this club with the flanged sole. I made it myself. That year I broke the scoring record in winning the British open and tied the record in winning the National open."

"In about three weeks there were 40,000 copies of the club being made and distributed, and I think that the low scoring since that time can be traced to that club. It eliminated paralysis in the bunkers, and made the good players all masters of bunker play."

Which probably is true enough. Sarazen, always a bold player, became so adept with this trouble shooter that it is said he would bet you he could come out of a trap and get down in one putt four out of five times, and it is fair to assume that other top performers became similarly proficient.

Ditch any big tournament today. Or rather, don't you wish you could? Anyway, in recent years the stars have walked up to a ball couched in a sand trap with casual indifference, taken out their sand iron, and wham! There would be the ball flying with the cup.

Plays for Charity
In winning the British open at Sandwich in 1932 Sarazen had rounds of 70, 69, 70 and 74 for a 283 total, which shattered the tournament record by two strokes. In the National open at Fresh Meadow the same year he was off to a wobbly start with 74 and 76 for his first two rounds. He then came in with a 70, and his last round was a 66 to give him a total of 286, good enough to tie the mark set by Chick Evans in 1916.

Incidentally, it was in the Fresh Meadow tournament that he shot the last twenty-eight holes in a total of 100 strokes. The sturdy Squire always has been one of the game's greatest finishers, with a knowledge that he was on a spot and had to bear down to come through acting as a soothing tonic to his nerves. He really has it in the clutch, which is the payoff on any great performer.

Right now he's playing charity exhibitions when his services are sought. He had one booked for this weekend, with a big advance sale of tickets, but the whole thing was called off when the pleasure-driving ban again was instituted on the Eastern Seaboard. He's quite proud of that iron and what it did for golf scoring, and the fact it was copied so extensively.

"And I never got a cent out of it," he says a little sadly.

Seven Will Defend A.A.U. Track Crowns

NEW YORK, May 26 (AP)—Seven champions, including two in the service, have notified Secretary-Treasurer Dan Ferris they expect to defend their titles in the National A. A. U. track and field championships here June 19-20.

The champions who plan to be on hand are: Harold Davis, University of California, 100 and 200 meters; Cliff Bourland, Southern California, 400 meters; Gil Dodds, Boston A. A., 1,500 meters; Chief Specialist Greg Rice, Merchant Marine Academy, at Kings Point, N. ## Golf Club To Discuss Future Plans for Year At Meeting Tonight

The future course of the Port Cumberland Golf Club, in view of the ban on pleasure driving, will be discussed at a meeting of members tonight at 8 o'clock in the offices of Dan Staley, club secretary-treasurer, in the Public Safety building, it was announced last night by Paul Goldworthy, president. Goldworthy said that the meeting will be held to determine just what chances the recently-reorganized club has of operating in the face of the pleasure-driving ban. A tournament had been scheduled for the coming weekend.

New Sport

The Royal Air Force personnel at Falcon Field has given Phoenix, Ariz., a new sport—rugby, under the lights.

The Sportlight by GRANTLAND RICE

(Released by North American Newspaper Alliance)

Sport, being a large part of a large section of the human race, may need a number of changes and improvements. So does the human race. But one thing sport doesn't need is a sport co-ordinator or any set of sport co-ordinators working in or from Washington.

Sport can take its share of punishment—but there is still a limit. Sport, left under its present guidance and direction will be far better off than it could ever hope to be under government direction.

Considering the amateur and professional side, sport still has such experienced administrators as Judge Landis, Ford Frick and William Harridge for baseball—Herbert Bayard Swope for racing—Major Griffiths of the Western Conference and Asa Bushnell of the Eastern Conference in college athletics—George Blossom and his U. S. G. A. committee in golf—Elmer Layden for pro football—good men in tennis, bowling and basketball—including the A. A. U.

There is no perfect human being in this long list. But it should be remembered that there is no part of a perfect human being in the world we know today.

The Main Idea

Sport would be far better off, for the game itself and everyone concerned, which includes many, many millions, if Washington would let it work out its own destiny with the war effort, naturally, the predominant point.

If those now in charge of various sports, with their long experience, can't handle the problems that wait ahead, then sport hasn't a chance. Many of them have made mistakes. But those criticizing them might have made even bigger mistakes.

This is no world in which to seek perfection and it is my belief that most of those directing sport have turned in a pretty fair job. Not a masterpiece, just a pretty good job.

They have certainly turned in a much finer job than any set of co-ordinators, working in the grip of a Washington bureaucratic group could ever hope to do no matter what men were picked.

Enough Problems

It seems to us that the government in Washington already has its full share of problems in trying to handle the workings of the army, the navy, the marines, the air force, the coast guard, the gasoline and rubber situation, the food tangle, the tax bill, inflation, the unions, the coal miners and ten or twenty other matters without attempting to pile on another headache. There have been various rumors around that many of these problems have not yet been settled to the complete satisfaction of the nation at large.

There have even been rumors that many of these important matters have been somewhat muddled. It is difficult to understand where any good could come from the addition of a new snarl.

The Other Side

There are many who believe that

Babe Dahlgren Faces Draft Call in July

PHILADELPHIA, May 26 (AP)—Officials of Draft Board 52 said here today that Ellsworth (Babe) Dahlgren, shortstop of the Philadelphia Phillies, passed his first physical examination and will be eligible for induction with the next quota, which probably will be called in July.

Dahlgren, in Cincinnati with the Phillies, has not yet been notified.

there is a strong organized influence against competitive sport and professional sport in general on the side of mass, muscle-making development, devoted largely to such matters as calisthenics and non-competitive training.

I can't believe the country has moved into any such state of complete insanity.

Competitive sport has been one of the major factors in the development of this country and it is more needed today than it ever was before.

We need this—not against the war effort—but as a vital part of the war effort.

It is my belief that most of the leaders in Washington know this to be true.

It might be that some ambassador of sport might help a trifle in making his plea at court.

I doubt it. For I believe most of those in charge at Washington understand the benefits that can come from a sporting program handled entirely as a war-effort benefit.

Reds Shade Phils In Ninth Inning

CINCINNATI, May 26 (AP)—Eddie Miller singled Bucky Walters home after two were out the ninth tonight to give Bucky and the Cincinnati Reds a 1-0 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Young Charley Fuchs had held the Reds to four hits and was within an out of finishing the ninth clean when Walters hit to Dannie Murtaugh at second. Murtaugh knocked it down but Bucky got to first with a single.

Then, as Fuchs worked on Lonnie Frey, Walters broke for second. Fuchs whirled and threw to the base and Bucky was tagged but Umpire John Barlick called it a balk and Bucky stayed on second.

Frey then was given an intentional pass and Miller caught a two-two pitch for a sharp hit to left field. Walters scored handily to end the game.

Neither team could get an extra base hit all evening but the Reds had men on bases almost every inning, with the aid of six passes by Fuchs. They left eleven there.

Dramatic Return Of Lou Novikoff Proves a Fizzle

Mad Russian Goes Hittless in Four Trips as Cubs Lose to Giants

CHICAGO, May 26 (AP)—The dramatic return of Lou Novikoff to the Chicago Cubs' lineup after a sixty-one-day holdout was a fizzle today as the Mad Russian went hittless in four trips to the plate. The Cubs saw their two-game winning streak ended 4 to 2 by the New York Giants, and only 4,638 fans entered Wrigley Field to hail their hero.

Novikoff, plummeted immediately into the lineup by Manager Jimmy Wilson without benefit of spring conditioning other than a few semi-pro appearances on the West Coast, was the only one of the Cub regulars who didn't get a safety off Bill Lohrman, the Giants' hurler. But Lohrman, now possessor of four victories and only two defeats for the second division New Yorkers, kept the Chicagoans' hits effectively scattered.

Paul Derringer took his fourth defeat in five games as the Giants hopped on the ex-Cincinnati pitcher for all their runs in the first three innings. The Cubs had numerous opportunities thereafter to catch up but Lohrman was able to avoid serious trouble each time.

Novikoff's part in the day's battling efforts consisted of a ground-out to second base in the second inning with no one on base; a pop fly to short in the fourth with a teammate on second and one out; a fly to deep center in the sixth with two out and men on first and third; and a fly to deep right in the eighth with two out and a man on second.

Often heckled during his spring contract squabbles with the Cubs as an ungraceful fielder, Lou had no chances worthy of mention in his 1943 debut. He did a competent enough job of picking up a couple of rolling base hits that came his way but was not called on to pursue a flyball.

Dick Bartell, with three hits, paced the Giants' attack and scored two runs. He singled to open the game and subsequently scored on Mel Ott's high pop which fell behind the infield. He doubled with Lohrman on base in the second and both scored on Jurgens' single. Ott scored the fourth New York run by singling, going to second on an out and coming home on Nick Witek's one-bagger. ## Congressmen Ask Army To Permit Soldier Football

More Liberal Attitude toward Sports during War-time Requested

WASHINGTON, May 26 (AP)—As leader of Congress' "three friends of football," Representative Weiss (D-Pa.) today asked Brig. Gen. Millard G. White, assistant chief of staff, to alter present regulations and permit participation in inter-collegiate athletic competitions by soldiers attending colleges.

Weiss's request in the interest of "our American way of athletics," came shortly after Weiss and his two congressional colleagues, Representatives Dilweg (D-Wis) and Monroney (D-Okla.) had carried to ranking army officers their quest of a "more liberal attitude toward the game during war time."

The English System

"Why not adopt the English system?" Weiss asked in a letter to White. "England has a war-time program which permits all army personnel attending the universities to participate in sports if they wish."

"Throughout England sports events have been carried on during the war, attracting from 20,000 to 100,000 spectators. They believe it develops the men physically and builds morale. I agree."

The army recently pointed out certain reasons why it said it may not be feasible for soldiers in college training to compete in athletics. Principal reasons were lack of time, transportation difficulties and the attitude on the part of some persons that such participation might come under the heading of special privileges.

To which Weiss replied: "All colleges have voluntarily limited their traveling to a minimum. Many have cancelled games involving lengthy trips. For instance, Notre Dame cancelled its games with Southern California and Georgia Tech, and the University of Pittsburgh its games with Duke and Minnesota."

Gallup Poll Cited

"I am fully aware that the training courses are highly concentrated. However, it is my opinion that the physical training angle could be interwoven directly with combative sports."

"I feel certain that every soldier participant would be willing to spend the extra time required for intercollegiate competition because it develops leadership and builds character and the body."

"The Gallup Poll shows that fifty-nine per cent favor sports while twelve per cent made no commitment with only twenty-nine per cent opposed. In over 400 letters, soldiers, sailors and marines in Guadalcanal, New Guinea, Africa and England have clearly indicated a desire that college, high school and professional sports be continued."

PORTO ALEGRE, Brazil—(AP)—Tightening of gasoline rationing in this southernmost state capital of Brazil is seen in the announcement that public ambulances will be converted from gasoline operation to charcoal and that they will be used only in cases where the patient is too ill to make the trip to the hospital by normal means.

Use of private cars has been banned in Brazil for almost a year because of the fuel shortage due to the war.

Alleged Burglar Slashes Deputy, Escapes from Jail

WESTMINSTER, Md., May 26 (AP)—State police reported that a 41-year-old man held at the Carroll county jail here in connection with a series of burglaries, made his escape tonight after slashing Chief Deputy Sheriff J. Lee Cromer with a knife.

The police teletype named the escaped prisoner as Harry Handelman.

Carroll county jail officials said the break occurred when Cromer entered the prisoner's cell to give him his dinner. Cromer's wounds were described as not serious.

State and county police conducted an intensive search for the fugitive. Neither Cromer nor Sheriff Charles Conaway of Carroll county could be contacted immediately for an official report of the break.

Scouts Beal Out Messages on Drums

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa.—(AP)—Boy Scouts resorted to Indian drums to send messages across the Susquehanna river during a blackout after an imaginary bombing "destroyed" other means of communications.

Williamsport civilian protection forces are prepared to signal across the Susquehanna by semaphore during daylight raids but find the drums most effective at night. An alternative method is use of a flashlight concealed in a long pipe to hide the beam from airplanes.

Laborites Refuse To Go on Record As Condemning John L. Lewis

Temper Flare at Final Session; Convention Refuses To Approve Negro Vice President

The Maryland and District of Columbia Federation of Labor refused yesterday to go on record as condemning John L. Lewis and branding his request to re-enter the A. F. of L. as an attempt to influence the national organization "to repudiate its solemn no-strike pledge."

Shortly before adjourning its thirty-eighth annual convention at the Port Cumberland hotel, the delegates rejected by a voice vote a resolution introduced by Costas Alexjoni, representing the Washington Hotel and Restaurant Employees Union.

Alexjoni's resolution, given an unfavorable report by the federation's resolutions committee, declared that Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, has utilized "the strike weapon, which disrupts our war production, in violation of labor's voluntary no-strike pledge."

It further would have called on the national AFL to reject the UMW's application for re-admission.

Convention is Largest Following the close of the three-day gathering, which President Robert J. Buxbaum said was the largest in the history of the federation, the executive board went into session to outline policies and make plans for the coming year.

Earlier in the day, the convention voted against taking independent political action.

The action came after President Robert J. Buxbaum, of Baltimore, relinquished the chair to urge more than 250 delegates to reject a favorable report by the organization's legislative committee on a resolution submitted by the International Ladies Garment Workers Union of Baltimore.

Temper Flare

The resolution was defeated on a voice vote after a debate in which tempers flared several times as they had throughout the day.

Other developments of the third day of the convention:

1. The federation deleted from a previously approved resolution a reference to "that infamous misleader of the Mine Workers," William Blake of Washington told delegates the reference furthered the cause of labor disunity, and said the convention should not go on record in the "foolish manner" while John L. Lewis's request for AFL admission was pending.

2. The convention adopted a resolution condemning Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker for "his enmity to organized labor and pointing out to him that his attitude leads straight to the destruction of organized labor and democracy." The resolution was introduced by the Baltimore ILGWU.

3. All present officers of state-District federation were re-elected to serve for the ensuing year by acclamation, there being no candidates nominated to oppose them.

4. Delegates refused to approve another ILGWU resolution which asked that the miners "be given a fair hearing before an unprejudiced tribunal—one that is not bound by some silly 'formula' which completely ignores the facts of the case."

The UMW case is now being considered by the War Labor Board. The resolution also declared that "the application of the 'little steel formula' is discriminatory as between general defense workers and miners."

5. The convention refused to approve a resolution calling for creation of a seventh vice-presidency with the condition that the office be filled by a Negro. Much of the morning was taken up with a heated debate on the resolution, submitted by six Washington Negro delegates.

In the debate on the political action resolution, which would have authorized formation of a committee to "make a study of the advisability in Maryland within a three month period to make recommendation for a labor unity conference," Buxbaum told delegates such action in the past had proved unwise.

He asserted that during the last Baltimore municipal campaign, the city federation endorsed the candidacy of Richard C. O'Connell for city council presidency against that of Thomas E. Conlon, who he called "the best friend we had at Annapolis."

Conlon, former speaker of the state house of delegates, was elected to the council presidency.

Controversy Arises

In the controversy over the negro vice president, Lawrence Owens of Washington, a Negro said that approximately thirty delegates to the convention were Negroes, and he asked that "you give us a fair break."

W. J. Jones of Cumberland said he opposed increasing the size of the executive board, and declared he saw no reason to designate a member of any minority group for office.

Colvin A. Douglas of Baltimore, a negro, said there had been frequent references to the federation's policy of non-discrimination, but said that on the first day of the convention Buxbaum had announced that "The colored delegates will have their headquarters at somebody's tavern. If that isn't discrimination and segregation, what is?" he asked.

Police Hold Youths In Casino Robbery

Constitution Park Establishment Is Rifled of $30; Equipment Damaged

Two Cumberland youths were arrested by city police yesterday afternoon in connection with the robbery of the casino at Constitution park late Tuesday night at early yesterday morning, Assistant Chief of Police J. Treiber said.

Anton Anthony, operator of the casino, said the loss approximated $30 in cash, some cigars and damage to the nickelodeon and cigarette machines.

The casino was closed about 11 o'clock Tuesday night, Anthony said, adding that the robbery probably occurred after midnight. He said the youths gained entrance to the establishment by breaking a rear window and climbing through.

The youths were arrested by Detective B. F. Gaffney and Officer John H. Newhouse and docketed at police headquarters at 1:45 p. m. They are held in the city jail pending questioning today.

Resolution Asks For Publication Of Draftee Names

Urges Listing of Those Deferred; Submitted by John R. Kelly

A resolution favoring the issuance by all local selective service boards to the press the names of all registrants called for examination for induction, and the names of all those passing such examination, was adopted yesterday at the final business session of the thirty-eighth annual convention of the Maryland and District of Columbia Federation of Labor, yesterday in the Port Cumberland hotel.

The resolution, submitted by John R. Kelly, of this city, representing the Dairy Workers Local, also provides that "the names of all registrants deferred, together with the name of the person or corporation requesting a deferment and the reasons given for such request; the names of persons taking appeals from the findings of the local boards and the final decision of the appeal board."

Other resolutions approved on the final day include:

Urging the setup of a National Resources Planning Board for the creation of a program of post-war plans which would aid in the critical days following the end of strife.

Hiring of workers over 40 years of age was also advocated in the resolution.

Enactment of legislation which would prohibit women from working in the state of Maryland more than eight hours per day was also urged in a resolution. An exception could be made by the War Manpower Board in cases of essential war plants but time and a half overtime pay would be in effect.

Condemning persons making an effort to have legislation enacted which would put out of existence the alcoholic beverage industry. The resolution cited the effort of the industry in manufacturing ingredients which are used to make smokeless powder and other munitions for the war program.

Urging a fifteen per cent hike in wages for employees of the Government Printing Office. This resolution cited that employees had not received a wage increase since 1926.

Recommending that the minimum wage rate for sub-standard workers be fifty cents in the counties and fifty-five cents an hour in Baltimore.

27 NEW CASES ARE EXAMINED AT MONTHLY CHEST CLINIC HERE

Thirty-eight patients, including twenty-seven new cases, were examined by Dr. Isadore Lyon, of Baltimore, at the monthly chest clinic yesterday in the basement of the city hall.

Twenty-seven of the persons were X-rayed at Memorial hospital.

The clinic was one of the longest on record here, opening at 8:30 a. m. and closing at 6 p. m.

Dr. Lyon was assisted by Miss Sadie Gladwin, supervisor, Miss Grace Hardman and Miss Margaret Morrissey, public health nurses, and two students from Catholic university who are here obtaining experience essential to the completion of their course in public health nursing.

Dowling Explains New Law Easing Sale of Sherbet

Can Be Sold Legally in Bulk, over Counter or on Plates after June 1

Two bills affecting the manufacture and distribution of ice cream and sherbet enacted at the last session of the legislature, have been signed by Governor Herbert R. O'Connor, it was announced yesterday by J. Byron Dowling, sanitarian of the Maryland State Health Department.

One measure, reducing the milk fat and milk solid requirements in the making of ice cream and sherbet, already is in effect. The other, repealing restrictions on making and distributing sherbet, becomes effective June 1.

"The latter bill was sponsored by the ice cream manufacturers and takes the place of an older statute forbidding the sale of sherbet except in individually packaged portions.

When the bill becomes operative June 1 it will be legal to sell sherbet in bulk over the counter, on plates, or in any other manner.

Dowling, however, said that a department regulation still requires and will continue to require that all sherbet offered in packages be plainly labeled as such. The word "sherbet" must appear on the container.

The state sanitarian also said there has been no change in an old statute which forbids the sale of sherbet flavored with chocolate or vanilla. This bill was enacted, Dowling said, to protect the public against the sale of chocolate or vanilla sherbet as chocolate or vanilla ice cream.

There has been some questions recently, Dowling said, as to whether the sale of sherbet and ice cream in the same container is legal.

Since OPA restrictions on the manufacture of ice cream became effective manufacturers have been offering a combination of sherbet and ice cream in the same package.

Package Must Be Marked

Dowling stated that it is quite legal to offer the combination in the same package provided the package bears the word "sherbet."

The new bill reducing the minimum milk fat and milk solid required in the making of ice cream has the approval of the United States Department of Agriculture.

The volume of milk and cream allotted to the ice cream industry has been reduced by OPA regulations and the reduction in milk solids and milk fat requirements was made to allow industry to maintain production of ice cream with a small milk and cream allowance.

The state health department is authorized to make further reductions in fat if it is considered necessary.

Nurses Study War Problems

Interaction between public health nursing and industrial nursing was the main topic in the symposium on nursing problems caused by war conditions at the meeting of District No. 1, Maryland State Nurses Association, held last evening at Allegany hospital.

The need to check absenteeism of workers having illness in the home and no means of care by having a visiting nurse or public health nurse follow up the cases was stressed.

Another point brought out was the need for group nursing because of the shortage of nurses. It was explained that instead of a patient having a private nurse a group of patients should have the same nurse.

The symposium was conducted on the lines of nursing problems in industry, institutions, public health and private duty, with the discussions being led by Sister Fidelis and Mrs. Mary E. Freed, representing institutions; Miss Margaret Morrissey and Miss Sadie Gladwin, public health; Mrs. Nell Sell, private duty; and Miss Elizabeth McGinn and Miss Margaret Kahl, industry.

Mrs. Howard L. Tolson presided at the business meeting. The next meeting will be held September 22. Memorial hospital was tentatively selected as the place of meeting.

Red Cross Workers Annual Institute Is Cancelled

An institute for Red Cross chapter workers of Maryland, scheduled for the first week in June at College Park, has been cancelled due to the current shortage of gasoline. An announcement was made yesterday that state-wide meetings for chapter workers, which are held annually for the purpose of co-ordinating activities, will be postponed throughout the eastern area. The institutes will be held at a later date when the traffic situation is better, Red Cross officials said.

Miner Is Injured

A fifteen-year-old coal miner, Luther Metz, Barton, suffered a fractured left wrist yesterday afternoon when he was caught between a coal car and a bin at the Metz coal mine. He was admitted to Memorial hospital for treatment.

Habeas Corpus Writ Is Granted A. J. Crabtree

Bond Is Set at $2,000 for His Release Pending Grand Jury Action

A writ of habeas corpus was granted Andrew J. Crabtree, of Oldtown, yesterday in circuit court and Associate Judge William A. Huster set bond of $2,000 for his release pending action of the October grand jury on charges of statutory rape and carnal knowledge of two sisters, one 13- and the other 14-years of age. Crabtree had not posted bond last night and is being held in the county jail. Edward J. Ryan represented the petitioner.

Another man, Harper C. Carpenter, 39, of Oldtown, who is involved in the same case is held in the county jail pending action of the grand jury on a charge of statutory rape. Both men were arraigned before Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr. yesterday and ordered held for the grand jury. Estel C. Kelley represented Carpenter.

At the preliminary hearing for Crabtree he was charged with intimacy with both of the girls, 13 and 14 years of age, who had followed one another into domestic service in the Crabtree home last February.

A widower, Crabtree is a Celanese worker and the father of three children, two of whom attend school. The girls in the case said that Crabtree's advances were made on his weekly holidays from work and while his two older children were at school.

The 14-year-old girl said she quit her job in Crabtree's household after her two weeks' service and that she told her younger sister of her experience there before the latter took her place for another two weeks.

Carpenter, who is said to be a boarder in the girls' home, waived a preliminary hearing yesterday. Charges against him involve only one of the girls, the younger one.

YOUTH RECEIVES SUSPENDED TERM OF YEAR IN JAIL

A 17-year-old youth, Edward Blacker, 436 Virginia avenue, received a suspended sentence of one year in the Maryland House of Correction yesterday when arraigned before Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr. on a charge of unauthorized use of a car owned by John W. Ridenbaugh, 937 Maryland avenue.

Blacker, and two younger boys, were arrested Tuesday night by Troopers Joseph White and I. G. Unger on the Uhl highway near Paw Paw, W. Va. They said they had taken the car and ran out of gas before abandoning the machine. The younger boys were given a stern warning by Magistrate Bruce to stay out of trouble. All three had been involved in cases before, police said.

Effort To Be Made To Secure More Auxiliary Firemen

A concerted effort to secure more auxiliary firemen from Cumberland now that fire-fighting equipment has been received here for civilian defense purposes will begin immediately, Dr. Robert W. Work, civilian defense director for Allegany county, said night after a meeting of auxiliary firemen at West Side fire station.

Dr. Work, who presided at the meeting, said that the excuse for the lack of auxiliary firemen has been that "we have no equipment." Now, he said, "we have few firemen."

There is a nucleus of eight or ten men around whom an auxiliary fire-fighting unit will be built, he stated, and these men will be issued some of the equipment that has arrived here. Estimated value of the equipment assigned to this city is $10,000.

"We only want men in the organization who are particularly adapted to the work," Dr. Work said, "through courage and coolness. We want men of high caliber and character."

Yesterday, Dr. Work said, he received a directive to attempt to borrow trucks on which to carry pumps and other pieces of fire-fighting equipment.

Because of the restriction on the use of gasoline, Dr. Work said, it is possible that some establishments may have idle trucks available for the purpose. He pointed out that owners may leave some advertising on the vehicles.

Mayor Outlines Post-war Plans

Conlon Tells Lions of Five Projects Contemplated by City

Five post-war projects proposed for the City of Cumberland were outlined yesterday by Mayor Thomas F. Conlon at the regular weekly luncheon meeting of the Cumberland Lions Club at the Central Y. M. C. A.

The projects mentioned by the city's chief executive include:

1. Construction of an outfall on Frederick street.

2. Construction of an auxiliary water line from the city to Koon dam beyond Lake Gordon.

3. Filtration plant for sewage disposal as a means of eliminating pollution of the Potomac river.

4. Adequate flood protection.

5. Construction of a union bus terminal and other changes that would relieve traffic congestion.

Conlon provided some interesting data on flood control, furnishing figures to prove that Cumberland has a real problem on its hand when the matter of protecting a city whose two streams drain a watershed of 876 square miles is taken into consideration.

"Engineers tell us that there is no system that would offer protection in event a six-inch rain fell within a twenty-four hour period," the mayor said. He concluded, however, that Cumberland has yet to see this amount of precipitation during a single day.

WORLD WAR VETERANS ARE ASKED TO BUY FIRST POPPIES

Men who served in the first world war are urged to be the first to put on a poppy on poppy day, Saturday, in a message issued by G. Ray Lippold, commander of Port Cumberland Post, No. 13, American Legion.

Recalling the service and sacrifice of the men who fought for America twenty-five years ago, Mr. Lippold said "Men are again being called upon their lives for America, as did our comrades in 1917 and 1918. Our own boys and our neighbors' boys are among them. Our hearts are heavy at the thought of these young men meeting the same fate as those we left beneath the poppies of France twenty-five years ago."

The poppies, made by disabled war veterans, will be offered on the streets all day Saturday by the women of the American Legion Auxiliary. The money contributed goes into rehabilitation and welfare work of the Legion and Auxiliary. The disabled veterans and the children left fatherless by war are the special concern of the Legion and Auxiliary, Mrs. David Allen explained.

The session was called by the Labor Unity Conference, and Wilbur K. Bishop, price specialist of the Cumberland OPA field office, explained the manner in which the survey is to be made and distributed forms for use in the work.

Bishop told of the rights of consumers and the rights and obligations of the retailer under OPA regulations. Violations of the ceiling prices on foods will also be checked. Mrs. Delphia Parker, chairman of the Labor Unity Conference unit on OPA matters, presided at the meeting.
